Chicagon's New Tammany.
And a Petrified Elephant.
The Fords Must Rough It.
A Useful "Don't."

MORE IMPORTANT than the fall of William Hale Thompson or the rise of Anton J. Cermak in Chicago's mayoralty fight is the fact pointed out by Michael W. Straus that a "Chicago Tammany" is now in power.

Cermak, whom friends described as a determined, able man, has long been boss of Chicago Democrats. Many believe his organization is in power to stay and may make of Illinois a Democratic state. This interests the Republican party for 1932.

A HUGE petrified elephant with tusks 6 feet long, a foot and a half thick is found in the bed of a dry lake on an almost inaccessible mountain in the Mexican state of Nayarit.

Much bigger than any we know, this Mexican monster lived and died far from Washington. But unless Washington's Republican elephant manages to do something between now and 1932 about unemployment, nationwide crime, racketeering, etc., it may find itself much like its petrified Mexican brother.

A HENRY FORD balance sheet, filed in Massachusetts, shows that Ford in 1930 made only $44,460,823, compared with $81,797,861 in 1929. The United States Ford has, at most, three stockholders, Mr. Ford, Mrs. Ford and their son, Edsel Ford. The drop in profits probably does not worry them particularly. Three easily could rough it on $44,460,823 a year, and even put up something for a rainy day.

DEAN LOOMIS of New York university offers among "don'ts" to parents this excellent one:

"Don't urge your children to go to college because you went, or because you didn't, or because the youngster's chums are going, or because it is the avenue to a sorority, or fraternity, or to athletic success."

College life hurts as often as it helps, and oftener. Better for a young man to spend four years at work realizing his shortcomings than more or less at study acquiring an exaggerated idea of his own importance.

YESTERDAY in the cathedral of Palermo, Sicily, Prince Henri, son of the Duke of Guise, pretender to the French throne, married Princess Isabelle of Orleans and Bragance.

Both are descendants of the last king of France. Much royalty attended the wedding, the ceremony being performed by Cardinal Lavitrano.

The vatican objected to the presence of two excommunicated French editors, Leon Daudet and Charles Maurres, but objection was withdrawn when it appeared that the two were there as working newspaper men, not as guests.

As far as royalty goes that wedding was like marrying a Confederate $5 bill to one of the $1,000 Kerensky bonds.

They are a nice young couple, 23 and 18 years old, but so far as the throne of France is concerned they are as much out of date as the Confederate money or the Russian bond.

France is republican and will remain republican. Bourbons who

RAIN PROMISED TO CHECK HEAT WAVE IN WEST

Six Children Die; One Prostration Reported.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 9.—Showers in many sections of the middlewest were promised by the weather bureau today to relieve a heat wave which set some all-time April 8 records.

Chicago's temperature soared to 80 degrees yesterday, the warmest April 8 since weather records have been kept. It was the highest April 8 temperature since 1910, when a 75 was reached. Six children, lured into the streets by the first real summer-time temperature of the year, were killed by automobiles.

From Minnesota and North Dakota came reports that dust storms added to the discomfort of midsummer heat. Omaha, Neb., had an 88, which exceeded by one degree the previous April 8 heat record, set in 1887.

TEMPERATURE RECORDS HIT.

Abnormal Weather Conditions from Oklahoma to Canadian Border.

KANSAS CITY, April 9. — A spring heat wave that led to one prostration and established temperature records at several cities was the talk today in plains states dotted by snowdrifts 10 days ago.

Abnormal weather conditions were reported from northern Oklahoma to the Canadian border yesterday. L. S. Ruggles, an auctioneer, was overcome while crying a sale in Lincoln, Kas. Dust storms swept North Dakota and Minnesota.

Weather observers forecast cloudy skies and possible showers today for most of the section.

Temperatures ranging from the high 70s to 80 inspired increased activity among farmers.

"YELLOW DOG" BILL TIED UP

Organized Labor Faces Stalemate After Witnessing Five Victories in State Senate.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—Organized labor, after witnessing five victories in the senate yesterday, found itself stalmated on its major victory in the house of representatives today.

Prospects for obtaining house consideration of the "Yellow Dog" contract bill, which the senate passed by a vote of 25 to 1, are dim and its advocates have virtually given up hope, of its passage.

Other victories scored by labor in the senate were the adoption of the joint resolution by Senator James A. Reynolds (D), Cleveland, authorizing the governor to appoint a commission to study the subject of unemployment insurance and report to the next assembly; passage of the Nickels bill requiring political subdivisions to keep that section of the workmen's compensation fund solvent, and passage of the Roberts bill requiring payment of a "fair wage" to employes on public works.

KING GEORGE RECOVERING

WINDSOR, Eng., April 9.—Progress noted yesterday in condition of King George, who is suffering from sub-acute bronchitis, is being maintained, it was stated officially at Windsor castle, today.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR SALE HALT ABANDONMENT

Two Weeks' Notice Promised by F. J. Garrett.

PARLEY GOES ON

"We Will Not Operate" Briggs & Turavis Declare.

The Youngstown & Ohio River railroad, 38-mile passenger and freight line between East Liverpool and Salem, which will be abandoned if not sold to the Montour, Wheeling & Lake Erie or Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad companies, today obtained a 30-day lease of life.

F. J. Garrett, secretary of Briggs & Turavis, Inc., of Chicago, who Tuesday night told the Chamber of Commerce here that service would be discontinued Saturday night in the event the road were not sold, today said "operations would continue for at least two weeks."

Garrett Wednesday afternoon applied to Columbiana County Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones for a 30-day extension of the 30-day "quit" order which expires tonight. Although Judge Lones will not act upon the application until Monday, the filing automatically extends the abandonment period, Garrett said.

Promises Two Weeks' Notic.

"This order, which will be granted Monday, does not mean that we will operate the Y. & O. road for 30 days," Garrett declared. "We have asked for the extension in order to continue negotiations for the sale of the line. We expect to conclude the negotiations this week.

"In any event, two weeks' notice will be given of our intention to suspend service.

"One thing is certain, however. We will not operate the railroad, for we are not railroad operators. The line will be abandoned south of Leetonia if we do not sell it. We can easily sell the section between Leetonia and Salem, which includes the leased trackage between Washingtonville and Salem."

Confers on Road Sale.

Garrett confered Wednesday with representatives of the Montour, Wheeling & Lake and Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad regarding the sale of the road.

"Our negotiations are still under way," he said. "We expected a definite decision within a few days."

Garrett reiterated his previous declaration that the road south of Leetonia, which includes the East Liverpool district, will be junked if a deal is not arranged.

FIRE DAMAGES MOTOR TRUCK

Firemen Extinguish Blaze Caused By Broken Gasoline Line in Milliron Machine, Wednesday.

The cab of a truck belonging to Peter Milliron of Second street, was destroyed by fire Wednesday at 11 p. m., in Cain Heights. The blaze, which started in the gas line, was extinguished by firemen.

A baby bed was destroyed in a fire at the home of S. J. Curran in Canton street Wednesday at noon. The origin of the fire was not determined.

Firemen from the Central station were called out to extinguish grass fires Wednesday at 2 p. m., in St. Clair avenue.

CHILD SUFFERS ARM FRACTURE

Alvera Aley, Victim of Second Mishap in Three Months While Roller Skating.

Alvera Aley, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Aley of Bank street, suffered a fractured left are when she fell while roller skating near her home Wednesday at 5:30 p. m. She was attended by Dr. Clyde R. Larkins. The child sustained a fracture to the same arm about three months ago when she fell from a sled while coasting.

WELLSVILLE MAKES RECORD RUM SEIZURE

150-gallon Still and Other Contraband In Two Houses.

Marking a record seizure, Wellsville police Wednesday night seized a 150-gallon still, 20 125-gallon tanks and 15 barrels of mash, 1,000 pounds of sugar, 300 pounds of yeast, 50 five-gallon cans, 40 gallons of finished liquor and other equipment in two vacant houses in Commerce street.

The raids were directed by Chief of Police John H. Fultz and Mayor George S. Hardman, assisted by Patrolmen Edward Pugh and John Duncan.

As an aftermath of one raid, Tony Cortese, owner of the building in which the still was found, was arrested and is held on a charge of suspicion. He told police that a real estate agency had charge of the building.

Still in Operation.

The still was found at 5:30 p. m., when acting on a tip Chief Fuitz, and his raiders visited an unoccupied storeroom and two-story dwelling at 1202 Commerce street. In the first room in the rear of the building they found the still which was warm and a barrel with the finished product. The liquor-making device was attached to piping and a large hose which ran to the hall in the second floor where the mash, with the use of a pump, was sent to the floor below, making direct connection with the still. There was a hole cut through a section of the woodwork on the ground floor which provided access to the sink. Boilers used for straining and other devices with a quantity of sand and sugar were also found in this room.

The galvanized tanks, filled with foaming mash, were located on the upper floor. They were removed with still, gas burner and other equipment to the city hall and old pump station for storage.

This house has been vacant for a year, Chief Fultz said.

Tanks, Barrels Destroyed.

Shortly after 7 p. m., Patrolmen Harry Dustman, Meryle Todd and Charles Excell went to the house at 1107 Commerce street where they found 18 barrles of mash in three rooms on the second floor. There was no still. Several sacks of corn used in manufacturing whisky were seized in one of the rooms, while the floors of others showed traces of sugar having been used.

The tanks and barrels containing the mash were not removed but were destroyed today on the premises by police.

The police had no difficulty in gaining entrance to the places.

MISS M'LEAN IS MAY QUEEN

Wellsville Seniors Also Pick Attendants for Annual School Festival on May 15.

WELLSVILLE—Miss Helen McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McLean of Broadway, was selected May Queen in the balloting held Wednesday afternoon by the senior class of the high school.

Her attendants will be: Misses Lois Momberg, Mildred Williams, Grace Cook, Mary Alton, Erla Bell and Esther Serafy.

The May festival, in which all of the schools of the city will participate, will be held Friday afternoon, May 15, at Hammond park in the Wellsville-Salineville road.

BANDIT CRACKS ROGERS SAFE, GETS $1,000

Roy Shively's Store Looted by Lone Autoist.

DOOR PANEL CUT

Escapes With $700 Cash, Jewelry, Auto Tires.

Eastern Ohio police today joined in a search for an unidentified bandit, who, playing a "lone hand," cracked the safe of the Roy Shively general store in Rogers, 15 miles north of here, early today and escaped with $700 in cash and $300 worth of other loot.

The robbery occurred between 4 and 4:30 a. m. The time was definitely fixed by a woman who saw the thief climb into a sport coupe and speed toward Youngstown on No. 7 highway, and by the registration of a signal in the Rogers telephone exchange caused when th6 telephone box at the Shively store, which rested on top of the safe, was knocked to the floor.

Chiseled Front of Safe.

The robber first cut a panel out of the front door of the store and then turned the lock to gain an entrance.

He chiseled off the front of the safe and looted the interior of everything of value, including money, a quantity of old coins which Shively said today were valued very highly, and a number of lodge rings, six automobile tires, a quantity of popular priced watches, a large flashlight and 10 cartons of cigarets.

Woman Sees Robber.

Mrs. Elkins, living across the street from the store, heard the hammering on the safe and decided to investigate. As she crossed the highway, she observed the figure of a man whom she believed at first to be the owner of the store. He walked rapidly to the intersection of No. 7 highway and the Elkton road, climbed into his car and, running without lights, sped north toward Youngstown.

Deputy Sheriff George Hays was investigating today.

GORDON MURDER MAY BE SOLVED

Three Persons Held as Witnesses As Police Charge Harry Stein With Killing.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Vivian Gordon's murder was believed solved today.

The man charged with her murder was Harry Stein, otherwise unidentified in the cautious first announcement.

Three others are held as material witnesses, and a fifth, whose connection with the case was not made clear, was held for possesing a pistol and burglar tools. He said he formerly was a Canadian mounted policeman.

The motive for the murder, police said, was robbery.

The arrests were made simultaneously last night in various parts of the city. Besides Stein, those arrested were:

Samuel Greenhauer, alias Greenberg, Greenhear and "Greenie," 44, a tailor.

Morris (Doc) Levine, 36, electrician.

David Butterman, 34, jobber.

Jack Holdcroft, 29, former Canadian trooper.

Skeleton keys and a pistol were found in Holdcroft's room.

The: three—Stein, Levine and Greenhauer—denied knowing the Gordon woman. They could not explain their names in her diary.

TROOPS HELD IN READINESS

Tense Atmosphere Prevails in Lisbon, Portugal, Where Revolutionary Outbreak is Expected.

By The Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, April 9.—All troops here were confined to barracks today except for details left to guard public buildings. Reports were current that a revolutionary outbreak in Lisbon itself was scheduled for today. An unusually tense atmosphere was apparent.

When government officials arrived at their offices they found sentries at the portals of the building who demanded identification papers before allowing them to enter.

MELBA LEAVES $980,000

By The United Press.

MELBOURNE, Australia, April 9.—A fortune of about $980,000 in bequests left by Dame Nellie Melba, the famous singer, was revealed today in her will, which directed that at least $490,000 of the total should go to America.

Special Election To Fill Vacancy

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9. — Special election to fill the vacancy in the first Ohio congressional district caused by the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth at Aiken, S. C. today must be called by the governor under the Ohio statutes.

The Ohio laws requires that the governor issue a proclamation for a special election, specifying the time for the election.

The first district, from which Mr. Longworth served for many years, is entirely in Cincinnati.

Governor White said he would look into the law on the procedure to be followed in a congressional vacancy. The law does not specify a time limit on when the special election shall be called.

GRAF ZEPPELIN OFF TO EGYPT

Permission Granted For Landing at Cairo.

By The Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 9.—The Graf Zeppelin set out today on a Mediterranean jaunt to Egypt and Palestine with the intention of doing what was forbidden in March, 1929.

The Graf this trip has permission to land at Cairo. Two years ago when a similar trip was projected it was understood the British government had entered tacit objections to passing over Egypt.

When apprised that British government felt that in event of mishaps over Egypt the government would be responsible, Dr. Eckener at that time stated: "Yes, yes, I see that we are all a lot of little children whom our English guardians must prevent from dropping into the water and getting our feet wet."

There were 25 passengers aboard today, among them Flight Lieutenant R. S. Booth, who commanded the R-100 on its flight to Canada. Dr. Eckener, in command, plans to land at Cairo Saturday then cruise over Egypt and Palestine and return to Germany Monday.

The Zeppelin's departure was at 6:10 a. m., M. E. T. (12:10 a. m. in East Liverpool.) It passed over Basel and at 9:35 G. M. T. (4:35 a. m. E. S. T.) flew over Saint Vallier Suh Rhone, headed southward toward Marseilles.

FLOOD CLAIMS BOY'S LIFE

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., April 9.—Back waters of Mill creek, swollen by the recent rising of rivers in this section, today had claimed the life of Frank Delfino, 13, Cincinnati, when he fell into the water from a raft yesterday. The body was recovered.

NINE MAJOR EVENTS LISTED FOR GRADUATES

Junior-Senior Prom Monday, May 18, First.

Commencement activities for the 1931 class of the East Liverpool High school will be inaugurated with the junior-senior prom on Monday night, May 18, and will include nine major affairs, it was announced today by Superintendent Herbert G. Means and High School Principal B. G. Ludwig.

The following events are scheduled:

Monday, May 18 — Junior-senior prom in the high school.

Wednesday, May 20—Parents' reception in the high school.

Friday, May 22—Senior banquet and dance, place undecided.

Sunday, May 24—Baccalaureate service in the First Christian church.

Monday, May 25—Eighth grade commencement in Ceramic theater.

May 25, 26 and 27—Exhibition of manual training, home economics and continuation school work in the high school.

Tuesday, May 26 — High school commencement in Ceramic theater.

Thursday, May 28 — School carnival in the high school.

Friday, May 29—School picnic at Rock Springs park.

Rev. Dr. J. G. Reinartz, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church for 44 years, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

The high school commencement will be featured by an oratorical contest by members of the graduating class. A special musical program by the seniors is also being arranged in charge of Musical Supervisor Hugh F. Laughlin.

A program of music will feature the eighth grade commencement.

The carnival will feature fakirs, fortune tellers and pink lemonade. Each school in the city will have a part. Final plans for the affair will be made at a meeting of the committee in charge at the high school next Monday afternoon.

Committee is Named.

B. G. Ludwig is chairman of the carnival committee, which also includes Miss Ruth Baxter, Miss Claudia Gill, H. D. Rist and I. A. Hoffman. Proceeds will be used to finance the school paper.

The three - day exposition will show the benches, lamps and articles of furniture made by the manual training class; the dishes, vases and other pottery ware produced in the ceramic class, and food and clothing, the work of girls in the home economic course.

AUTO DRIVER NABBED

OHIOAN LOSES FIGHT AGAINST PNEUMONIA

Republican Leader Succumbs in Aiken, S. C.

61 YEARS OLD

His Wife at Bedside In Home of Mrs. J. H. Curtis.

By The Associated Press.

AIKEN, S. C., April 9.—Nicholas Longworth, 61, speaker of the national house of representatives, died here at 10:40 a. m. today.

Longworth's amazing vitality, physicians said, alone kept him alive during last night and until his death. He was taken ill last Monday of pneumonia in one lung.

At his bedside was his wife, the former Alice Roosevelt, daughter of former President Theodore Roosevelt, and his friend, Mrs. James F. Curtis, at whose home he contracted the disease.

His daughter, Pauline, was not with him.

Ill Since Monday.

Taken sick Monday, physicians diagnosed his illness as pneumonia Monday night. He steadily grew worse and 48 hours later they admitted his condition was desperate.

Mrs. Longworth was notified as soon as it was determined he was suffering from pneumonia and she arrived in Aiken Wednesday morning. Her fortitude, Dr. R. H. Wilds, of Aiken, one of the attending physicians, said, was remarkable.

Two of Mrs. Longworth's brothers, Kermit and Archibald Roosevelt, were speeding to the bedside in a plane, but had not arrived at the time of the speaker's death.

Mr. Longworth arrived in Aiken March 30, to rest after the arduous duties as speaker of the house. He developed a cold soon after arriving but it was not believed serious until this week.

He had played a little golf after arriving, friends said, but had done little else in the way of exercise.

FUNERAL IN CINCINNATI

Body Wil Be Taken to Home From Aiken, S. C.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth today telephoned Speaker Longworth's office here that his body would be taken directly from Aiken, S. C., to Cincinnati for a family funeral there.

Train arrangements were placed in the hands of Sergeant-at-Arms Rodgers of the house, who immediately communicated with railroad officials regarding special service for the occasion.

Miss Mildred E. Reeves, secretary to Mr. Longworth, will leave Washington for Cincinnati later today to assist in making arrangements there.

SERVED IN 13 CONGRESSES

Nicholas Longworth Was Speaker for Six-year Term.

A six-year term as speaker culminated the service of Nicholas Longworth in the house of representatives during thirteen congresses.

But three speakers in the history of the house occupied longer the chair to which Mr. Longworth was elevated by his Republican colleagues after 20 years apprenticeship as a "boy" representative from Ohio, distinguished service on the powerful ways and means committee and one term as majority floor leader.

He was the Republican candidate for speaker of the next house in which that party now holds a majority of only one. Prophetic-

Longworth Memory Lauded By Hoover

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—President Hoover upon learning of the death of Nicholas Longworth said that "he contributed greatly to the welfare of the American people," during a service of over 33 years.

His statement read:

"Mr. Longworth served his fellow countrymen in state and nation for over 33 years—nearly the whole of his adult life. In his service he contributed greatly to the welfare of the American people. His happy character, his sterling honesty, his courage in public questions, endeared him and held the respect not alone of his myriad of friends, but of the country at large. His passing is a loss to the nation."

"Good Old Days" to Return in London.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, O.--For the "old-timers," an announcement made here will bring back memories of the "good days."

Emerson Yake, of South Vienna, and Forrest Webb, of London, widely known stockmen, have revealed plans for the opening within two weeks of a livestock sales pavilion at the Old Harry Ford barn here.

The barn ns being remodeled, and will be equipped with all facilities to make it a strictly modern pavilion for combination sales.

The sales, to be held each Thursday, will dispose of all kinds of livestock, including cattle, stock hogs, sheep, horses and mules. Consignments will be received from stockmen and farmers wishing to take part.

Carload lots of all kinds of livestock will be sold and several well known packer buyers have expressed their intention of attending the sales to buy carload lots of fat stock.

In past years such sales were an institution, but in the more recent times of more highly centralized cooperative marketing and [illegible] stockyards, have become a [illegible].

FARMERS FIGHT SMUT IN OATS

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9 — By curbing the ravages wrought by oats smut on Ohio farms, farmers may cut an annual loss of 600,000 bushels of oats to a minimum, declares A. J. Pierstorff, extension plant pathologistat Ohio State university.

Control of the smut, according to Pierstorff, lies in treating oats before they are planted to destroy the deadly spores before they have an opportunity to attack the plants.

Await Umpire's "Play Ball!"

With the curtain down on basketball and football forgotten until next fall, sportdom's thoughts today turned to baseball, the national pastime, for the opening games in the National and American leagues will be played next Tuesday. With a few exceptions all stellar performers in the two major circuits are under contract, while the so-called holdouts are expected to be in uniform before the season gets under way. As a result club owners, managers, groundkeepers and fans eagerly await the familiar command, "Play ball!"

From Maine to California and from the gulf to the lakes, baseball is the topic of the hour. There is speculation regarding the strength of the respective teams and heated debates regarding the possibilities of unseating the Philadelphia Athletics in the circuit which mourns the death of President Barnard and his predecessor, Ban Johnson, and equally as much discussion over the likelihood of another club supplanting the St. Louis Cardinals in setting the 1931 pace in the older league.

A colorful setting will be provided for the opening of the season, for it will be marked by the presence of President Herbert Hoover, who has a powerful right arm but is a trifle wild. The nation's chief will pitch the first ball when the Washington Senators and Connie Mack's Athletics start the 1931 puch in the national capital. The presidential salute of 21 guns will be fired as Walter Johnson's cohorts and the world's champions go into battle. And in other cities in the two leagues mayors or other officials will toss the first ball to the umpire or the pitcher who will attempt to baffle the home club's hitters.

And as the major and minor leagues prepare to usher in the season, independent and amateur teams in hundreds of cities throughout the land are planning home town games. East Liverpool, which gave major league baseball such stars as Curt Welch, George ((Toadix) Carey, Win Mercer, Alf Shaw, Hi Myers, Forbes Alcock, John Godwin, Bill Powell and others of fame, will be a member of a Community league in which Wellsville, Chester and Newell also will be repesented.

Yes, there is music in the call of balls, strikes, hits, putouts and assists, and millions of men, women and children dance to it.

Three Times and Out

William Hale Thompson, three times mayor of Chicago, has been given tangible assurance by voters of his city that his political career is ended. His opponent, Anton J. Cermak, won Tuesday's election by a majority of 191,916. Mr. Cermak, born in Prague in 1873, will be Chicago's first foreign-born mayor.

If "Big Bill, the builder," as former Mayor Thompson liked to called himself, had carried Tuesday's election it would have left no doubt in America's mind but that Chicago wants the kind of government it has suffered under the Thompson administration. Mr. Thompson's character and methods have received a great deal of unfavorable attention, in and out of Chicago. Whether his ill-repute was exaggerated in public opinion or not is less important than the effect he was having on Chicago's reputation.

In the recent election Mr. Thompson was deserted by his party, many of his former friends and most of his famed political bombast. He fought as a man half-beaten would be expected to fight. He appeared tired, discouraged and fed up with politics. Voters rarely go wrong when they are confronted with such incontrovertible evidence—they put the last touch on the decline by defeating him at the polls.

Mr. Cermak is little more than a name outside Chicago, where he holds a powerful position as head of the Cook county Democratic organization. But to observers of Chicago politics, as much as to citizens of the Windy City, he is a symbol of hope for better government. It logical to presume that Chicago's government could not be much worse. It is also logical to doubt that Mr. Cermak will be able to keep many of the election promises he made. Chicago is rid of an executive who has brought much shame upon it, but it is still a long way from being rid of the corrupt practices that have irritated its citizens. Perhaps, with the familiar symbol of its corruption removed, the world will come to regard Chicago as no better or worse than a dozen other American cities.

Authors' Rights

One author with the renown and influence of Theodore Dreiser can dare to budge mountains while a hundred of his inferiors fiddle ineffectually with mole hills. So when Mr. Theodore Dreiser starts out to settle the question of authors' rights in the moving picture studios that's the signal that something is going to happen. One side or the other is scheduled to take a licking.

The public's contact with the authors' rights issue is displayed every time a movie-goer tells a friend that "the picture wasn't at all like the book—good, of course, but if you don't know you'd never guess where they got it." There's no necessity to recall the dozens of "adapted" pictures of recent years. the best moving picture of 1930 by popular vote, "All Quiet On The Western Front," was adapted from the novel of the same name. Its resemblances to the book, by the way, though closer than moving picture audiences have learned to expect, became quite obscure during several episodes, notably the closing scene.

Mr. Dreiser has summarized neatly the tragic thing that happens to authors who try to say what shall happen to their books during the print-to-film transition. "I came, I saw, I was conquered," he recalled. "They laughed at me. They said I was antiquated. They said Hollywood needed no advice or suggestions from moss-back authors. . . . They tell me I'll be crazy over the picture and I believe they're telling me the truth."

It could not very well be otherwise—and there always will be bad feeling until it is otherwise. Mr. Dreiser, for instance, sits down to convey images to readers by word pictures. He writes a book that will require, say six hours of careful reading. A moving picture company buys the rights to adapt—notice the word "adapt"—the book to its uses. It's job is to convey impressions by images, by the stress of certain scenes, by the "tone" of an half-and-half moving picture. Perhaps. Since the movie must vindicate itself by making money, the "tone" will have to be lowered to suit the public taste, which, of course, may be depended upon to run contrary to the author's ideals.

In fact, one suspects that the upshot of it all may be that Mr. Dreiser and other super-particular authors may have to give up the remuneration from novels the movies want unless they are willing to let the movies do as they see fit with them. The side of the case where control of the purse rests is likely to be the more powerful.

A Lady Pitcher

It may be only a publicity stunt, but Jackie Mitchell, 17-year-old girl baseball pitcher for a professional team in Chattanooga, Tenn., seems on the verge of kicking over another tottering barrier between the sexes. Suspicious as her loudly proclaimed feat of fanning Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees appears under the scrutiny of reason, the fact remains that they struck out—and the crowd was convinced they were frustrated.

The fact that a 17-year-old girl has earned a tryout as a pitcher in professional baseball also remains. The male always has been a little patronizing about the awkward, overhead throwing of a lady. The female should just isn't made to throw any other way, they have consoled. Women never will earn their way in baseball, hah, hah.

But what about Pitcher Mitchell? Pshaw, it must be just another publicity stunt. Man has to have some distinctive accomplishment, even if he can claim it only on paper.

Other Editorial Opinions

ANOTHER ROLL OF HONOR.

One begins to scan the lists of Guggenheim Fellows to discover the young talent of the country rather than to judge the caliber of the list. Of that one is already sure. For in six years the Guggenheim Fellows have proved that those who selected them knew their business, and in diverse fields. Arron Copland was one of the first small group of Fellows chosen in 1925; Leopold Manners and Roger Sessions were young musicians chosen the next year. Arthur H. Compton, relatively unknown when the Guggenheim board discovered him in 1926, two years later received a Nobel prize for his work in physics. Stephen Vincent Benet, with the aid of a fellowship, set to work on "John Brown's Body" that same year; and in another field Herbert Feis, Bernadotte Schmitt and Nathaniel Peffer were among the early Guggenheim men. With such precedents each new Guggenheim list is assuredly a roll of honor.

The record of the past suggests that the Guggenheim board has a rare capacity to discover and judge young men and women. One can only call attention once more to the wisdom of the generous terms on which the unusual foundation is administered. Its founder hoped "to add to the education, literary, artistic and scientific power of this county, and also to provide for the cause of better international understanding," and he set no rigid limits to the manner in which the gift should be administered. When a man or woman is selected for the award, which usually amounts to $2,500 for a year's work, the board considers that its work is done. It sets no restrictions upon the place or methods of his study; he is free to determine what is best. The year's allotment is paid in a lump sum at the beginning, and there is neither supervision nor a time-clock. The success of this free experiment may well be suggestive in other fields of education. Perhaps the first and most difficult task of higher education is to select men and women worthy of special encouragement. Once they are discovered, all they need is a chance; they have in themselves such seeds of inspiration and achievement as no system of teaching could ever instill.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Highlights of Ohio History

WORK OF A PRE-HISTORIC ARTIST.

By J. H. Galbraith.

For the Associated Press.

There is an interesting specimen of the handwork of the pre-historic Ohioans on a great sandstone rock that looms up above the surface of the ground near the base of a hillside five miles southeast of McConnellsville, the seat of Morgan county. It lies on the E. M. Sherwood farm, and until a few years ago was not known to have the importance that now attaches to it.

The rock lies beyond the line of glaciation, and is not granitic in composition, so it was not brought to its resting place upon a glacier, but belongs to the sandstone measures that are near the surface in that region and crop out here and there. But it is of enormous size and occupies a commanding position.

The portion of the rock that is exposed measures 20 feet in its greatest extent at the ground surface and its highest point is about 10 feet above the surface. As there is no way of ascertaining the depth to which it extends under ground its total volume cannot be estimated.

From the top of the rock a fine view out over the level fields of the Sherwood farm and beyond is to be obtained. From this and the fact that various figures appear carved upon the surface of the rock, local people have given it the name of "Observation Rock" and "Council Rock," as they have imagined it used for these purposes by residents of the locality in pre-historic days.

The figures are of animals and not little ability in drawing is shown in the work. No attempt has been made to guess their meaning. There is a figure of a turtle, and one of a fish, both swimming, a deer in full flight, an animal which may have been intended for either a fox or a wolf, but which does not look very much like either.

The lines were probably cut with flint-stone into the softer sandstone and since weathering has taken place in the bottom of the grooves keeping pace with that on the surface, the pictures are still quite discernible.

Words of the Wise

Censure and criticism never hurt anybody. If false, they can't hurt you unless you are wanting in manly character; and if true, they show a man his weak points and forewarn him against failure and trouble. —Gladstone.

Every man is to be envied who is fortunate with his children. —Euripides.

A thoroughbred horse is not disgraced by his bad saddle. —Syriac.

There is some virtue in almost every vice except hypocrisy. —Hazlitt.

Imitation is natural to man from infancy. —Spenser.

Words, at the touch of the poet, blossom into poetry. —Holmes.

Love is never lost. If not reciprocated it will flow back and soften and purify the heart. —Irving.

THE FASCINATION OF BAD EXAMPLES.

New York Day By Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 9.—Metropolitan dramatic critics have been pelted with a number of stinging volleys this year. Ethel Barrymore, in a temperament pet, let go a double-barrelled barrage. And the fiery Richard Bennett, of course, takes them for a ride in every curtain speech.

Channing Pollock in a recent outburst explained: "The only person who loves a critic is his mother and she loves him because of an animal instinct." A number of disappointed playwrights and players are frequently baiting the critics. It is a Rialto diversion.

As a matter of truth the leading dramatic critics are eminently tolerant and without exception fair. I sat with them at every opening night for a season and was always amazed the next morning at their studious consideration for everyone concerned.

One or two salt their critiques with venom and seem querulously annoyed that performers are allowed to live, but they are the critical show-offs and are not considered seriously. Sarcasm is the most effortless form of writing and is never constructive.

The reviewer who indulges such a cachet of smartness is shooting from ambush. To say the least, he is a literary coward. For those who are targets have no comeback. They must take it on the chin. Incidentally, there is no record of a personal encounter between actor and critic in New York.

Considering that dramatic critics on morning papers have little more than a half hour at the most to sum up a play, it is remarkable how extraordinarily well they do it. Seldom are they permitted to see an entire play. They generally scurry out in the middle of the closing act.

There are stories that critics go into a huddle between acts and exchange views. Critics are not particularly "pally." They are thrown together in such nightly frequency that they grew rather tired of looking at one another. In the theater they are known as The Death Watch.

Before departing on his world tour, Robert L. Ripley invited his friends to a dinner. In each invitation was a card: "Please present this for spiritual reasons."

The term impresario invariably conjures in my mind the picture of a fussy little man sporting a silk hat and a pointed beard and with a pronounced foreign accent. One sent up his card today. He was fat, florid and Irish and the only person outside of fiction I ever heard say: "Bejabbers."

And the expletive "By Golly!" is also no longer heard. It was a favorite in the Gay Nineties. And Weber and Fields gave it a new life in their stage skits. Come to think, it has been a long time since I have heard grandpa's favorite: "Oh, foot!"

So far gastronomical galvantings in New York has failed to flush out a satisfied dish of what was known out in the brier patches as "wet hash." It was a soupy concoction made of chopped up meat, potatoes and generously spiced with onions. Brought on steaming it was an Epicurean epic. The Manhattan version is a mess—an olla podrida of left overs in huge lumps tasting like the sour end of a mop touched up with kerosene. Hash in New York is looked upon as a lowly dish of the water fronts. As a matter of fact it is one of America's grandest food offerings. I could wolf a hatful right now—two hours after a whopping breakfast.

As a throw back to depot short-order eating days I often inspire frowns among elegant waiters by asking for "a side dish" of this and that. Vegetables of all sorts to me are "side dishes."

I remain somewhat like Charlie Murray when he was touring the tanks in "Zeb the Clodhopper." He was in the play dining with a New York swell. At the finish of the meal the swell said to the waiter: "Bring me a demi-tasse." As the waiter departed Murray cried: "Kill me one, too. And bring me a crock of coffee."

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

MAN has been subjected to various ailments because of the very nature of his work. Laws have been enacted and enforced to prevent unnecessary exposure to disease.

These are wise laws, but in spite of them there remain various diseases afflicting man in his daily labors. "Silicosis" is one of these.

Silicosis is a disease of the lungs. It is produced by breathing in great quantities of dust containing a high percentage of silica. The disease is common in the mines of South Africa and Australia. It has been reported in the United States and Canada.

It is found in men who work on siliceous rock or dust, in metal mining and coal mining. It is encountered in the quarrying of sandstone and granite, in tunneling, excavating, sand blasting, stone carving, grinding and polishing.

Just how silica acts on the lung tissues is not definitely understood. As a rule is produces a chronic bronchitis and this may lead to one of the forms of pneumonia.

The afflicted person becomes extremely susceptible to infections of the lungs. Repeated attacks of pneumonia lead to a general lowered resistance and, following this, tuberculosis may be contracted.

The occurrence of silicosis seems to depend upon the percentage of crystalline silica, tiny sand flakes, present in the substance inhaled. Men who are occupied in work of this nature over a period of five to ten years are very likely to develop the disease. There have been reported cases of silicosis where the length of the exposure to the dust has been for a much shorter time.

After continued exposure the symptoms gradually appear. There is an obstinate cough and progessing failure of health. Within a short time the afflicted person is unable to work.

Much has been done to reduce the prevalence of this disease. Proper ventilation of mines has greatly diminished it. Men are now protected by the wearing of masks similar to those worn by our soldiers during the war.

Long continued exposure to the dust is to be condemned. It is recommended that in these dusty industries the men work in short shifts. At certain periods they should change their work, doing tasks where exposure to dust is not required.

Answers To Health Queries.

J. K. Q.—What are the symptoms of rupture?

2—What treatment is advised?

A.—A bulging at site of rupture.

2—Surgical measures are usually necessary.

P. E. Q.—What do you advise for receding gums?

A.—This condition requires the attention of a dentist.

MRS. R. L. H. Q.—What is the cause of a sour stomach and belching after eating? I have been bothered in this way for two years. Milk of magnesia has not helped the condition. What would you suggest?

A.—This is usually due to acidity. Correct your diet and be sure that the system is kept clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

MISS D. L. Q.—What would cause the veins near my temples and under my eyes to be unduly noticeable?

A.—It would be rather difficult to say, unless the skin is unusually fine and thin in these parts, causing the veins to show through.

C. J. B. Q.—What can be done to cure bronchitis? I have a coughing spell after eating.

A.—Improve your health so that you will be less susceptible to the germs of cold and coughs. Keep the system clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

ONCE OVER

Speaking of Treadmills.

Although you have a good position, your family is getting along well, there are times when you feel that you are leading a treadmill existence.

Holidays don't mean much to you any more.

Usually there is something about the home that you must do; the family have demands to be met; you can't do as you please.

You think back to your single care-free days when each holiday meant some break in the routine.

There was an out-of-town trip, or a day for your favorite sport.

Now you feel forbidden indulgence for the rest of life with family ties to prevent.

Do you realize that these things would not have the same attraction if you were free to take advantage of the pleasures of youth?

You and your crowd are older and they, as well as you, have taken on responsibilities such as yours.

Only single, unattached persons could be free as you were once.

You'd find yourself with a younger crowd who would not tolerate you for long.

Your time for foolishness is passed and your family should be your keenest joy—your home your greatest comfort.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES.

ON the following Washington's birthday in 1879, more than half a century ago, the Lindbergh of his day, Captain Paul Boynton, intrepid adventurer, and known on two continents by reason of his marked departures and accomplishments in negotiating seas and rivers in a special rubber suit in good and bad weather, during calm periods and amid storms, visited East Liverpool and Wellsville. In both places he spent a night.

He was then engaged in making one of the longest trips of his career in this unique manner by water. He had started at Oil City, Pa., and was on his way to the Gulf of Mexico. It was a distance of 2,342 miles. He concluded it in 80 days. From the outset of his journey until after he reached Marietta, Ohio, he was buffeted about by winds and a stream full of massive sections of ice. Near the close of his trip he was transferred into climate that almost scorched him with its intense heat. He thus reached his objective during the early part of the following May.

All America and a great section of the European continent was keeping in close touch upon this memorable trip of the then thirty year-old adventurer. He had been born in Dublin, Ireland and, after coming to America, fought in the United States navy, before beginning experiments with rubber costumes in navigating distances by water.

So keen was the interest taken in his project that the New York Herald, then one of the great papers of the day, sent two special correspondents to accompany him. They were Harry Eliser and James Creelman. The latter at the time had but a short time previously joined the staff of the Herald. He was then about twenty years of age. Doubtless he was assisting at the outset the more mature Mr. Eliser. After learning what was expected of him to do Creelman continued with Captain Boynton until the end of his journey.

Papers everywhere were carrying accounts of Captain Moynton at the time. He was a sort of a national hero by reason of his numerous accomplishments and his daredevil manner of procedure. He reached East Liverpool two hours ahead of time. Just the same there was over 2,500 to greet him at the foot of Broadway which was some crowd for those days here.

THE west bound train had passed him at Industry. A message was sent to East Liverpool that he was passing Smith's Ferry. A carriage had been engaged by Correspondent Eliser to meet him when he landed. Shortly thereafter the whistles of the then Homer Laughlin pottery began to blow signifying that he was just alongside the plant. Finally the assembled concourse of people beheld a grotesque object in the stream making the turn from Babb's island. The figure in the midst of the floating ice loomed a sea-lion or a walrus.

He landed before 3 o'clock in the afternoon after having been in the water since 8 o'clock that morning. He came so rapidly that the ordered carriage had not arrived. Consequently he was forced to walk to the then Len Dobbins hotel. There he was put immediately to bed. After resting for a while he was given what he declared was his first "square meal" since he left Oil City. He averred that he had not been feeling very well at the outset of the trip.

His wrists were badly swollen, and pained him greatly. He used a single paddle by which he managed to get by the cakes of ice. This paddle was so worn down that he averred that he would have to get another when he reached Wheeling. He used it to row when he was not floating down the stream. His outfit consisted of a specially arranged rubber or gum encasement which enabled him to ride the water in a standing or reclining position.

He said while lying in bed at the Dobbins House that the only fear that he had was that some hunter who had not read of his pilgrimage down the river might take him for an animal and fire before making an investigation. "Once during a similar trip that I was making in France a load of shot landed just at my feet but fortunately did not penetrate my suit," he said He declared there were many persons who did not read the papers closely and might easily take him for a monster and thus try a shot at him. He felt reasonably safe, however, because of the width of the Ohio river.

AFTER he had sufficiently rested Captain Boynton lectured that evening at Bradshaw's hall here. There many persons heard of many things that he had done in his adventurous career. He did not leave East Liverpool until the day following his arrival at 1:30 o'clock. Then 3,500 persons were upon the river banks to see his departure for Wellsville. This was one of the hardest sections of his long trip.

Indeed, he thought once that he would not be able to get by the heavy ice because of the terrific wind that practically blinded him. When he landed in Wellsville the entire city seemed to be out to receive him. Cannons were fired as he stepped upon the shore. The people there did not wait for a carriage but lifted him upon their shoulders and thus carried him to his hotel. There he remained the entire night. The next day he dropped away on his journey. He had with him a little boat which he had named "Baby Mine." This he used at intervals or had it trailing him.

One week from the time that he landed in East Liverpool he spent the night in Marietta. The following day when he resumed his trip again he had a clear river. He was reaching warmer localities. From then on the water became warmer and the sun finally all but burned him as he maintained his direction to the south.

He related when in East Liverpool that he had a humorous experience just without Smith's Ferry as he was making for the Pottery City. "A man with a skiff crossed my path from a bend in the river," he said. "I rose from my reclining position and inquired of him how far it was to East Liverpool. The man gave one look and doubtless thinking I was a monster from some imp region he pulled at his oars and rushed away without uttering a word. Captain Boynton further declared that he could tell for interims longer than an hour that a steamer boat was coming to meet him. He said that he took on a horn when he did meet the larger boats and pointed to the side that he was taking. But he a[illegible]ed that it was always a bit dangerous, for all of these boats for the benefit of passengers and crew would come as close as possible to him.

CAPTAIN BOYNTON was born on July 29, 1848. After the Civil war he engaged for a time with certain submarine experiments. Then he went to Mexico where he became a soldier in the revolutionary army of General Martinez at Sonora. From 1867 to 1869 he was employed in the United States life saving service.

When the Franco-Prussian war broke out, his thirst for adventure sent him into the French army. Thus when he was but 23 years of age he had been in three wars on two different continents and with three different countries. After that he heard of the diamond fields of Africa. And there he went. In 1874 he reentered the life saving service in the United States. Then he began his experiences of paddling about in water in the rubber suit that he had invented.

Taking his suit back to Ireland he once leaped from a vessel off the coast of that country during a great gale while 40 miles from land. After being in the water [illegible] seven hours he managed to reach the shore. On May 25, 1875, he managed to cross the English Channel in 24 hours while donned in his rubber suit. In October of the same year he paddled his way on the Rhine from Sivitz to Cologne, Germany, a distance of 430 miles.

Early in 1876 he went from Alton, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo., on the Mississippi, and from Bayon Gould to New Orleans a 100-mile trip in one day. The same year he went down the Danube from Long, Austria, to Budapest, Hungary, which was a 460-mile trip. The [illegible] through East Liverpool was o[illegible] his longest. However, in 1880 he made a longer one though he did not utilize so long a period doing so. In about 64 days from Sept. 17 that year he negotiated 3,580 miles from Cedar Creek, Mont., to St. Louis, Mo.

He was in another war in 1880-81. That was the struggle at the time between Peru and Chile in South America. For the former country he completed a torpedo boat. He was later captured by the Chileans and sentenced to be executed, but managed to escape.

IT was no wonder from all of these circumstances that the people of East Liverpool and Wellsville were greatly excited by the appearance of such a man in their midst. In their day and generation he was given the same exaltation which in a later time was given to Lindbergh wherever he went.

The young newspaper man that was with him was destined to even as great a record which was equally spectacular in accomplishment. James Creelman, Canadian born, being a native of Montreal, ran away from home to New York when he was but twelve. There he joined his mother. He procured employment on The Star, an Episcopal publication though his mother was a Scotch-Presbyterian. He had but five cents remaining when he reached New York city. In 1878 he landed on the New York Herald. Because of his tendencies to get about he doubtless was selected to follow the intrepid Captain Boynton.

He later went to Europe where he became a successful interviewer of great men. He procured an audience with Pope Leo XIII and got his views on the prevailing labor troubles. He had interviews with Bismark, the King of Greece and others. These have since been compiled into book form. It was entitled "On the Great Highway."

He had charge for a while of the Paris edition of the New York Herald. He broke with James Gordon Bennett because the latter thought he should publish his famous interviews anonymously. In 1893 he edited the British edition of the Cosmopolitan Magazine. He went to the New York World the following year. In the Sino-Japanese war he was a correspondent there and functioned on the staff of Count Filed Marshall Oyama in Manchuria.

He was the correspondent of the New York Journal during the Graeco-Turkish war. He was in Cuba in the Spanish-American war. Because he knew the roadways there he led the charge at El Caney and was wounded. For six years thereafter he was the Washington correspondent of the Journal in the nation's capital.

From 1906 to 1910 he edited the Pearson Magazine. In 1902 he published "Eagle Blood," a novel. He was the author also of "Why We Love Lindbergh" and "Diaz, Master of Mexico." For six years he and Robert H. Davis, a contemporaneous writer, worked at adjoining desks. Each remained "Mr." to the other.

In 1915 during the World war Creelman had his final assignment. He was engaged by the New York American to go to Germany. The United States was not then in the war against the Entente. He reached Berlin but shortly thereafter he became ill and passed away at the age of 56 years.

He like Captain Boynton before him had been in on many of the great events of his day. He stood out as perhaps the country's leading war correspondent when he was sent into the domain of the Kaiser. The adventures of Captain Boynton have been assembled in a book that was entitled "Roughing in Rubber," which some hereabouts in the long ago may have read.

RAIL WORKERS TO ADVOCATE 44-HOUR WEEK

Brotherhoods Meet In Denver May 11-21.

By RICHARD RANDOLPH
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DENVER — Unemployment problems facing the International Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes will be threshed out at triennial meeting of the organization here May 11 to 21, according to George S. Levi, Cincinnati, Ohio, grand secretary-treasurer, who was in Denver recently making preparations for the convention.

At least 2,000 of the 135,000 members of the brotherhood are expected to attend the Denver meeting, Levi said. A meeting of the general chairmen of the railroads west of Chicago will be held May 7 to 10 to complete matters of mutual interest that may be presented for discussion in the convention.

"This is the first convention since the business slump, and one of our major problems will be to help the unemployment situation, which is rather serious among our members, many thousands being idle," Levi said. "We will advocate a shorter work week with no reduction in pay. Our work week is 44 hours and in some districts 48 hours, as some roads demand a full day on Saturday.

"We are apprehensive about the effect railroad consolidations may have on employment and no doubt some resolutions on the subject may be adopted. We also will discuss the competition the railroads are meeting from the bus and truck lines, a business which natur.lly is hurting the members of the brotherhood."

Delegations from the east will arrive in special trains and those from Canada in special cars. Special trains will be provided to take delegates through the Royal gorge during the convention.

"Our brotherhood has a total membership of 135,000," Levi explained. "Our convention is long because we meet only once in three years. We embrace the clerical forces of the railroads of Canada, Mexico and the United States and have headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio. Our international president is George M. Harrison."

GROVE CITY COLLEGE AID IN WELLSVILLE TONIGHT

DR. REAGLE TO SPEAK AT CENTENNIAL

Presbyterians Will Hear Professor of Bible.

FORMER PASTOR

"Christian Education" Night Services Planned.

WELLSVILLE — Dr. William G. Reagle, professor of Bible at the Grove City, Pa., college and pastor here from 1910 to 1918, will be the speaker tonight at the centennial anniversary services in the First Presbyterian church. It was under his pastorate that the present church was erected.

Tonight will be observed as "Christian Education Night" with the following participating groups: Primary, junior and intermediate departments, Boy Scouts and the Senior Christian Endeavor society.

At the close of the services, Dr. and Mrs. Reagle will be tendered a reception by the congregation.

A large crowd attended the services Wednesday which were featured by addresses by Dr. Charles R. Zorbaugh, executive secretary of the Ohio Synod; Rev. H. W. Lowary, who served as pastor of the church from 1885 to 1898, and Rev. John Sharpe of Martins Ferry. A musical program was given by the choir.

The program tonight:

Organ Prelude—Reverie Interrompue—(Tschaikowsky); Song of the Volga Boatman—(Russian.)

Processional of Young People's groups.

Hymn No. 422—"Faith of Our Fathers, Living Still."

Scripture lesson.

Anthem by the Choir—"Fear Not, O Israel"—(Spicker.)

Prayer (Response by the choir.)

Soprano solo — "Repent Ye"—(John Prindle Scott.)

Address—Dr. William G. Reagle, professor of Bible, Grove City college, minister of this church, 1910-1915.

Closing Hymn No. 476—"Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

Benediction (Amen by the choir.)

Organ Postlude—Grand Chorus in D—(Spence.)

Reception for Dr. and Mrs. Reagle in the social room of the church.

PORTER HEADS COMMITTEE ON LEGION RALLY

Committees Named To Welcome Chief.

Sidney C. Porter, commander of East Liverpool post No. 4, The American Legion, has been named chairman of the advisory committee for the second annual tristate reunion of The American Legion to be held in East Liverpool Thursday June 18, when National Commander Ralph T. O'Neil of Topeka, Kansas will visit here.

Other members of the committee are H. B. Barth, Mayor R. C. Bledsoe, A. A. Wells, J. H. Browne, M. W. Thompson and Leland Thompson.

Other committees which have been appointed are as follows:

Finance—B. A. McKeever, chairman; Robert Birbeck, John Green and Millard Blythe.

Legion contact, advertising and publicity — H. J. Kaufman, chairman; H. B. Barth, Perry Barker, Earl Connell and James R. Goodwin.

Entertainment—C. D. McCullough, chairman; I. J. Vorndran, and Alfred Turk.

Banquet—Ladies auxiliary.

Parade—J. H. Browne, chairman; Samuel Farmer, James Kaiser and Cecil Pierce.

Drum and Bugle Corps and Band contests—R. M. Brookes and Claude Keys.

Decorations—James R. Goodwin.

Parking and Traffic—Earl Mosher, C. E. Felton and Hugh McDermott.

Plans are being considered to make this year's reunion a larger affair than last year's celebration held here on May 23, when more than a score of bands and drum and bugle corps marched in a parade which was the largest in the history of the pottery city.

The celebration will open with a banquet which will probably be served in two or three places. The banquet will be followed by the parade after which Commander O'Neil will speak from the reviewing stand which will be erected probably at Fourth street and Broadway. The drum and bugle corps and band contests will end the celebration.

This will be the second year that the local post has entertained the Legion chief, Commander O. L. Bodenhamer having been a guest here at the 1930 celebration. East Liverpool is one of seven Ohio cities which O'Neil will visit this year.

A fund to assist the relatives of the last Earl of Birkenhead is being raised in England.

RADIO ENTERTAINER

Paul Katz, 17-year-old Wellsville high school violinist, will be guest soloist in the Westinghouse band concert over KDKA Saturday from 6 to 6:30 p. m. This will be young Katz's second appearance from the Pittsburgh radio station. He is a student of Prof. H. F. Schenkel of East Liverpool and Prof. Carl Malcherek of Carnegie Tech.

MIDLAND WILL SELL BONDS TO PAVE STREET

Council Authorizes $75,000 Issue for Project.

MIDLAND — Borough officials were authorized to sell the $75,000 worth of bonds approved by the voters last November to defray the borough's share of the cost of the re-surfacing of Midland avenue by council Wednesday night.

The bonds, of $1,000 denomination, will not be placed on the market until the state highway department completes the plans for the improvement. The bonds will pay a four and one-half percent dividend.

The first allotment of six bonds will become due in 1936, while the final payment will be made in 1943.

Slaughter House Ordinance.

The ordinance regulating the maintenance of slaughter houses for butchering live stock within the borough limits and making it mandatory that each owner procure a permit from the health officer, was passed on first reading at the March meeting, was approved on second reading.

The annual license fee was set at $10 to maintain a slaughter house, while each butcher must pay $1 for each day that live stock is killed. All butcherin must be done between 1 and 5 p. m. on week days and the daily permit must be issued by the health officer two hours before the slaughtering begins. A penalty of $25 will be assessed for each day the ordinance is violated, while a $20 fine will be meted out for failure to procure the daily license.

Hearing on Paving Pact.

Solicitor R. S. Holt announced that the hearing on the petition filed with the public service commission for approval of the contract between the borough and the East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company fixing the trolley company's share of the improvement of Midland avenue and permitting the substitution of a single track for the present double-track system, will be held in Pittsburgh at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, April 29.

The councilmen conducted their first meeting around a new semi-circular oak table.

MIDLAND WOMEN PICK DELEGATES

Civic Club Will Send Representatives to Meeting at Beaver Falls Friday Night.

MIDLAND—A delegation of 12 women, headed by Mrs. Martin Lindsey, local president, will represent the Midland Civic club at the meeting of the Women's club of Beaver Falls, Friday night in the First Presbyterian church in Beaver Falls. An invitation has been given each women's organization in the county to attend.

Judge Sara Soffel of Pittsburgh, first woman judge in Allegheny county, will be the principal speaker.

Members of the local unit are also planning to attend the meeting of the Beaver County Federation of Women's clubs, which will be held Thursday, April 23, in the General Broadhead hotel in Beaver Falls. Mrs. W. I. McInerney of Ohio avenue is in charge of the luncheon reservations here for the all-day session.

PAROLE WANTED BY BRICKLAYER

J. K. Ingram of Beaver Falls Seeks To be Released From Beaver County Jail.

BEAVER—J. K. Ingram, of Beaver Falls, who is serving a four months' jail sentence for issuing questionable checks, has petitioned the court here for a parole. Ingram, who was sentenced February 14, claims he is a bricklayer and if released can support his wife and two children.

A hearing has been set for the petition on Saturday, April 16.

WELLSVILLE TO HEAR POLAR SCOUT SIPLE

Commander Byrd's Aid Will Speak on April 21.

WELLSVILLE — Paul Allman Siple of Erie, Pa., eagle scout who accompanied Commander Richard Byrd on his trip to the south pole, will speak here in the Methodist Episcopal church, Friday night, April 24, under the auspices of the Wellsville Boy Scout council.

Siple was born in Montpelier, Vt., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. and Fannie Allman Siple. He attended grammar school in Montpelier until his family moved to Erie where he graduated from high school at the age of 17. He became interested in scouting when 12, finally becoming an eagle scout. He now holds 60 merit badges.

At the age of 16 he became a sea scout whose flagship is the Niagara, Commodore Perry's flagship in the war of 1812.

He was urged by his friends to file an application when it was announced that Commander Byrd intended taking an eagle scout on the expedition. He was selected from a group of five other lads chosen as the finalists from applicants from every part of the country. He was away for 22 months, 14 of which were spent on the ice barrier at Little America. He was in charge of the animal life and was the expedition's taxidermist. He returned to New York last June and resumed his studies at Allegheny college.

LAW STUDENT GIVES TALK

West Virginia University Senior Describes School and Campus Life to Chester Pupils.

CHESTER — Henry P. Snyder, a senior in the law school of the West Virginia university of Morgantown and editor of the "Law Quarterly," a school paper, gave a description of the school, the courses, campus activities and college life in a talk at the assembly in the Chester high school Wednesday afternoon.

The address was given as a part of the university's annual "Mountaineer Week" program, when students are sent to each high school in the state. Snyder was assigned to the northern Panhandle district and will speak at all the West Virginia high schools north of Wheeling.

He was forced to cancel his appearance in the Wells high school at Newell, owing to a delay in his schedule.

RACING BOAT IN RIVER RUN

Packet Tom Greene Enters Excursion Trade.

Arrangements for entering the steamer Tom Greene, of racing fame, in the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati excursion trade for the spring and summer season, were completed Tuesday, according to G. W. Kimble, traffic manager, of Pittsburgh. The packet, owned by the Greene Line of steamers of Cincinnati, will make her first trip of the season from Pittsburgh July 7. The Tom Greene is the third boat that will operate out of the Pittsburgh harbor to the lower river this year.

The total value of the floating equipment of the Louisville and Cincinnati Packet line was appraised at $197,000, it was reported today. Arrangements are being made to place three steamers and three wharfboats on sale this month.

The packet, Liberty, after receiving repairs to her boilers and engines, was locked through at Dam No. 8 today en route to Charleston, with 100 tons of merchandise. The William G. Clyde was up from Mingo, with five empty barges and one barge of scrap iron; and the LaBelle was down from Pittsburgh, en route to Steubenville, with nine barges of coal and back with two empty barges.

CLUB MEMBERS TO RAISE PIGS

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9 — Pigs will be in the limelight this spring for some 523 vocational agriculture students in 90 high schools and more than 15 4-H club boys when they attempt to raise a litter of pigs weigh a ton or more within 180 days.

Approximately 540 farm boys have enrolled in the ton-litter club, according to J. W. Wuichet, extension specialist in animal husbandry at Ohio State university.

Only those boys having had previous experience in raising pigs in a pork production, or sow and litter projects, were permitted to enroll in the club and compete for the medals they become eligible for after completing the project successfully.

The aim of the project, Wuichet asserts, is to teach the principles of economical pork production and to acquaint farm boys with the most efficient hog management practices.

THEY CONFESS STARTING PRISON FIRE

These two prisoners in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, Clinton Grate (left) and Hugh Gibson, were indicted for first degree murder after they confessed starting the prison fire of a year ago in which 320 convicts died.

Findings For $3,687.57 Listed In County School Zone Report

Only Five Former Deficits are Reported Paid by State Examiners at Lisbon.

LISBON—Only five former findings have been paid school districts of the county, according to a report received here today from the state bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices. One finding was returned in 1925 and four were reported in 1927.

The current examination lists 20 unpaid findings totaling $1,427.44. The examiners, Miss Ruth Kaufmann and G. Sweet Ross, however, showed findings totaling $3,687.57, but $2,260.13 was paid.

The report disclosed that 29 findings returned in the 1927 and 38 in 1925 are unpaid. There are still 40 open findings in the report of 1924, 11 in the examination of 1921, five in 1917 and 13 in 1911.

The current report is a review of the records of all school districts in the county from Dec. 31, 1927, to Dec. 18, 1930.

COUNCIL WILL MEET TRUSTEES

Township Officials Seek to Have Lisbon Fire Department Respond to Calls Outside Village.

LISBON — Whether the Lisbon fire department will respond to fire alarms sent in from outside the corporate limits, will largely depend upon the result of a conference that has been proposed between the fire committee of the village council and the Center township trustees. This was determined at a meeting of the village council.

John Vogan of North Market street, has been appointed a member of the board of public affairs, succeeding the vacancy created by the recent death of George Huston.

Mayor George Bradbury has reported a collection of $89.55 in fines and licenses for March.

LOUD SPEAKER IS INSTALLED

By International News Service.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 9 —A loud-speaker system has just been installed in the 12-inch hot strip mill of the Sharon Steel Hoop company, and officials of the company say it is a success.

A continuous strip mill is several hundred feet in length and men employed in it are placed at widely-separated stations. With the installation of the loud-speaker system, orders can be relayed to the workers without a strain upon the vocal chords and with the assurance that each man may hear them.

Previously the roller, or the "boss" of strip mill employes, had to shout his lungs away from what was called the mill "control pulpit."

PRAYER SERVICES TONIGHT.

Cottage prayer services will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson in Dixonville tonight at 7:30. Mrs. E. E. Boyd will be the leader

ARBOR DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Midland Civic Club Will Plant 13 Trees.

MIDLAND — Mrs. John Daugherty of New York City and Mrs. Thomas O'Neil of Buffalo, N. Y., the first and third presidents of the Midland Civic club here, will be invited to attend the Arbor day observance of the club here in May, when 12 shade trees to be planted around the border of the Lincoln park will be dedicated to the presidents of the local organization since its institution in 1917, including the present leader, Mrs. Martin Lindsey.

It has been decided to plant a thirteenth tree commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

The other nine presidents are still residents of the Steel City and will be the honor guests of the club then. They are: Mesdames P. A. Fernsler, C. B. McGogney, W. H. Hart, Berkeley Franke, W. H. Crawford, J. F. Crichton, Harry H. Bream, J. A. Helfrich and B. C. Colcord.

It was suggested to combine the Civic club and the Midland school Arbor day programs. In the school program, the children will each be given the care of the 1,100 shade trees to be planted this month by the borough along all the streets of Midland. Each planting will bear the name of the tree and the caretaker's name.

A federal bill making it mandatory that girls entering nurses' training schools have four years of high school education was indorsed by the club.

A report of the meeting of the Southwestern Pennsylvania Federation of Women's clubs in Pittsburgh, Tuesday, March 31, was read by Mrs. Berkley Franke, in the absence of Mrs. P. A. Fernsler, delegate to the conference.

DEFER ACTION ON FIRE SIREN

Midland Council Will Meet Next Monday to Consider Purchase Of Alarm System.

MIDLAND—Action on three bids on the installation of a fire siren on the roof of the borough building to replace the steam siren at the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company plant now used to summon the volunteer firemen has been deferred until a special meeting of council at 7:30 p. m. Monday. Proposals were opened Wednesday night.

The Federal Electric company of Pittsburgh was the lowest bidder with an offer of $835, while the American La France and Foamite company of Elmira, N. Y., and the Sterling Siren Fire Alarm company of Rochester, N. Y., bid $840 each.

Council will also consider Monday night the proposal of the Gamewell company to install a code mechanism on the steam siren at the steel mill to be controlled from the police station. The cost was estimated by a representative of the company at last night's meeting at approximately $1,300. The sounding machine is constructed to permit the addition of alarm boxes through the community, which will blow the mill siren also.

The installation of the proposed police call system was postponed until August, when more funds will be available. The Duquesne Light company submitted a bid of $950, but it was suggested by Solicitor Holt that council advertise for bids, since the job will cost more than $500.

GREENFIELD TO OPEN NEW BANK

By The Associated Press.

GREENFIELD, O.—Greengield's new bank will soon be completely organized, and officials say the institution has been assured of receiving a state charter when details have been placed.

Ira J. Fulton, state superintendent of banks, and two of his assistants, were here recently to discuss plans for the new bank. Greenfield has been without a bank since the Highland County bank closed after a heavy run last year.

ONE OHIO SITE HIGHER THAN ROUND KNOB

Columbiana County Point 1447 Feet Above Sea.

LISBON — While Columbiana county has some few low spots scattered over its wide area, a geographical survey of the county shows an abundance of high spots, and also the second highest point in the state.

This high point in the state is shown by a bench mark at the summit of Campbell's hill on Jerusalem pike near Bellfontaine in Logan county, and which is 1,550 above sea level. The bench work at the peak of Round Knob in Madison township this county is placed at 1,447 feet above sea level, or 103 feet lower than the highest point in the state.

Oddity in Record

An oddity in the record of the survey is the difference between the low water mark at East Liverpool and at the Jefferson-Columbiana county line west of Wellsville. The low water mark at East Liverpool is 645 feet above sea level, and at the county line the mark shows 643 feet, a drop of two feet.

It has been generally supposed that the top of the hill in East Liverpool, upon which has been erected a stand pipe, to be the second highest point in the county, but this is not so. At this particular spot, the summit is but 1,240 above sea level, while a bench mark in the rear of the Travis homestead in Madison township, on the West Point-Wellsville road is 1,348 feet above sea level. Another high point is the top of a hill about one mile south of Kensington and near the Carroll county line which is 1,375 feet above sea level.

In the eastern part of the county, and on the East Liverpool-East Palestine road, the highest point is the top of the Pancake ridge, which is 1,231 above sea level. South of this spot on the same road, however, and where many motorists stop to view "the bowl," that point is 1,080 feet above sea level, while a branch of Beaver Creek flowing through the valley below is 760 feet above sea level, in other words, there is a difference of 320 feet from the creek to the road.

Motorists traveling the East Liverpool-Youngstown road while circling around the big "U" curve at Williamsport are of the opinion the road is "low," but the survey shows that Williamsport is 864 feet above sea level, or 221 feet above the low water mark at East Liverpool.

The highest spot in Salem is near the Salem City hospital, which is 1,320 feet above sea level or a difference of 675 feet above the low mark at East Liverpool. Another high spot at Salem is near the muncipal water works which is 1,160 feet above sea level.

East Palestine is 1,027 above sea level, while the high point in Leetonia is 1,175 feet, and this is a spot near the municipal reservoir. Columbiana, however is 1,138 feet above sea level, with Wellsville showing 768 feet above sea level, and this mark is at the city building. Lisbon is 968 feet, this mark being at the north east corner of the court house. Salineville shows its high point at 883 feet, this spot being at the west end of the first bridge west of the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad.

Traveling between East Liverpool and Wellsville, the peak is placed at 1,240 feet.

SEEK DAMAGES FOR INJURIES

Ina and Orville Carney File Damage Claims for $6,500 Against Gus Woessner.

LISBON—When Ina Carney went to the home of Matthew Andrews, 202 West Third street, East Liverpool, April 26, 1929, to demonstrate a washing machine, she sustained injuries when descending the steps into the basement of the home, she alleges.

A $5,000 damage action has now been filed in common pleas court by Mrs. Carney against Gus Woessner, 430 Vine street, East Liverpool, who owns the property occupied by Andrews. The petition sets up the steps were defective.

Orville Carney has filed suit for $1,500 against Woessner, charging he was deprived of the services of his wife at their home. Both petitions were filed by Attorney Elmer T. Phillips.

$16,500 GAS TAXES DIVIDED

County Receives $4,500, While $12,000 Goes to Road Fund—18 Townships Aided.

LISBON — Eighteen townships and the county itself have received shares of the first distribution of the gasoline tax for the year. A warrant for $12,000 has been credited to the county road and bridge repair fund, while $4,500 is to be divided among the townships.

During 1930 the townships received $1,350 each, while the county was credited with $64,500. Each township in the first distribution this year received $250.

WOMAN'S ARM BROKEN

NEWELL — Mrs. Amanda Skeeles, 80, of Jefferson street suffered a fractured right arm and injuries to her shoulder when she fell in the yard of her home Wednesday afternoon.

NEWELL—Members of the junior class of the Wells high school will give a party and dance for alumnae and students in the high school building Friday at 8 p. m. Other diversions will be cards, games, bingo and grab bag.

Music will be furnished by Bill Adams' orchestra. Miss Olive Floyd, class advisor, will be in charge of the program. She will be assisted by Albert Graham, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Miss Marian Simpson, chairman of the menu committee.

MAYHEW WILL KEEP HANCOCK COUNTY POOR

Pughtown Man Awarded Two- Year Tract.

CHESTER — The contract for keeping the Hancock county poor for the next two years was awarded to John Mayhew of Pughtown, president of the County Farm Bureau, at a recent meeting of the county court at New Cumberland, it was announced today by James L. Mayhew, county commissioner.

Under the new contract the keeping of the poor will cost the county $12,000 a year, the amount of Mr. Mayhew's bid, which was the only one presented.

Mr. Mayhew has cared for the poor in the county for 15 years and the contract has been in the family for more than 35 years, with the exception of one term 15 years ago.

Having no county owned home, the court is forced to let the keeping to a private individual on a contract basis. Mr. Mayhew's 140 acre farm is ideally located, being at Pughtown in about the center of the county, and provides sufficient tight work to keep the aged inmates occupied.

An average of 25 aged persons, mostly men, whose families are unable to keep them or who have no relatives are supported at the farm. Members of Mr. Mayhew's family and a small additional force operate the home.

HITS "CEILING" IN AUTOGYRO

Amelia Earhart Pilots "Windmill" 19,000 Feet in Air.

WILLOW GROVE, Pa., April 9.—Amelia Earhart, who yesterday piloted an autogyro to an unofficial altitude of 19,000 feet, believes the "windmill" airplane points the way to eliminate a great deal of trouble aviators encounter in bad weather.

With Major Luke Christopher acting as official observer for the National Aeronautics association, the woman trans - Atlantic flier made two flights at the Pitcairn field to establish the "ceiling" for the craft. She carried with her a sealed barograph which was sent to Washington for official examination.

Using a standard Pitcairn autogyro with a 300-horsepower Wright whirlwind motor she reached an unofficial altitude of 18,500 feet on the first flight and 19,000 or more on the second. The flights were made in the presence of her husband, George Palmer Putnam, of New York, and about 1,000 others. She said she hoped to make another attempt later for a higher mark. The was aloft an hour and fifty minutes on the first trip and an hour and 45 minutes on the second.

She has purchased an autogyro for experimental purposes. She said that on the basis of the theoretical estimates, the best altitude performance for this type of machine was about 20,000 feet.

FLIER, BRIDE DIE IN CRASH

Plane is Wrecked as They Wave Good-by to Family.

JEFFERSON, O., April 9.—An 18-year-old bride of a week and her aviator husband were killed last night while still waving good-bye to the family where the bridegroom had been making proud introductions.

The couple, Rollie, 22, and Ruth Patterson, were taking off from the farm of G. C. Patterson, an uncle, who lives six miles south of here, when their plane crashed from a height of 80 feet. The uncle and other members of the family watched.

The plane catapulted upward after striking a tree branch, then dived, nose down, in the barn yard. Mrs. Patterson was dead and Patterson died only 15 minutes after the crash.

The couple was returning to Madison, Lake county, where they were married March 31.

AMERICAN LEAGUE TEAMS HOLD BIG EDGE

Cardinals Ahead In National

Younger Loop Wins 27 Out of 49 Contests.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Someone with an analytical bent will please step forward and explain the comparatively weak showing National league clubs have made up to the present, in the spring exhibition circuit.

For, with the complete returns almost in, the senior organization has failed to compile anything like the winning record credited to teams of the American league.

Not only did the American take a commanding lead over its rival circuit in the inter-league argument during the past week, but it has posted a far more impressive record against all competition since the exhibition grind began.

Without any help from the Champion Philadelphia Athletics, the American league has bested the National in 27 out of 49 direct engagements. Only one National league team, St. Louis, has done better than break even.

The American league, in all games, has turned in 103 victories to 59 defeats, while the National has won 84 and dropped 79. Four National leaguers haven't been able to reach a .500 average, even while playing in the outlying districts.

Donie Bush's Chicago White Sox supplied the fanfire for the past week, winning six out of their seven engagements.

Only Flip of Pen Needed to Get Cleveland Titular Battle

BIG LEAGUE STARS SET FOR OPENING TUESDAY

Here are some of the boys who have the experts picking their clubs to finish 1-2-3 in the major league races which get under way next Tuesday: Al Simmons, slugging left fielder of the world's champion Philadelphia Athletics; Joe Cronin, Washington shortstop, named last year the most valuable player in the American league; Rogers Hornsby, one of the best right-handed hitters in baseball who is to lead the Chicago Cubs from his second base post; Burleigh Grimes, veteran spitballer of the National league champion St. Louis Cardinals, and Babe Herman, hard-hitting right fielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Stadium To Cost $25,000

Either July 3 or 4 Is Date for Strib Go With Maxie.

By The Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., April 9. — A flip of the pen was all that was needed today to give Cleveland iron-clad assurance of its selection as the site of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight championship bout.

It was understood a contract for rental of the municipal stadium at a fee of $25,000 would be signed today by William Saxe, representing the Illinois Madison Square Garden corporation, and George Bender, stadium manager.

The 15 - round go will be held either the night of July 3, or the afternoon of July 4. The date is expected to be formally announced next Wednesday at South Bend, Ind., where Schmeling is scheduled for an exhibition.

The contract provides that the promoters will pay all expenses above $12,500 in increasing the stadium's seating capacity from 80,000 to 120,000 and will split concession profits with the city.

Star Looming In Southwest

By The Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Okla. — Peyton Glass, jr., sensational sophomore sprinter of the Oklahoma A. & M. track squad, bids fair to succeed Cy Leland and Claude Bracey as the southwest's dash star.

Glass was unknown until he won the "century" at the Southwest Exposition this spring at Fort Worth, Tex., in 9.6 seconds, equaling Leland's record time for the meet.

Later, at the Texas Relays at Austin, he was twice clocked in 9.5, a mark which, if approved, would tie the world's record.

In high school Glass specialized in the broad jump. He is 19 years old.

May 2 Is Date Of Venture

Annual Interscholastics Will Attract County Teams.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. — The annual Geneva interscholastics loom forth as another successful track and field venture. Since its beginning the yearly meet held at Reeves stadium has been consistently of prime caliber, and the coming event on Saturday, May 2, will be no exception.

Approximately a thousand high school athletes from all parts of the tri-state district participated last year, and according to Athletic Director A. C. Edgecombe, more than that number will be on hand next month. Entries are divided into Class A, B and C, according to the size of the respective school student bodies.

Last year, East Palestine, O., high took honors in Class A; Ellwood City, Pa., captured class B, and Lisbon, O., won in class C.

The feature of the 1931 meet will be the relay specialties. For each of class A and B, there will be the mile, 880 and 400 sprint relays. There will also be two open relays, the distance medley and the low hurdle shuttle.

ONLY TWO MORE REMAINING NOW

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 9.—Heigh Ho! Helene Madison, 17-year-old Seattle, Wash., swimmer, has lowered another record.

Resuming her campaign to gather up all women's records, the Seattle star last night trimmed one and three-tenths seconds from the 75-yard free style mark of :45.1, established in 1925, by Ethel Lackie.

PADDOCK BITTEN BY OWN CANINE

By International News Service.

PASADENA, Calif, April 9.—The erstwhile "world's fastest human," Charley Paddock, today is taking pasteur treatment as a result of being bitten by a dog last week.

The former sprint champion had attempted to stop a fight between two dogs, one of them his.

CAMPOLO TO ARRIVE

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 9.—Vic Campolo, the giant Argentine, will arrive here next week, it was learned today, to sign for his fight against Tommy Loughran in Madison Square Garden on May 15. Loughran has agreed to the date.

WARREN BROWN MAY BE CHIEF

By The United Press.

SOUTH BEND, April 9.—Reports were current today that Warren Brown, Chicago sports writer, would succeed the late Knute Rockne as athletic director at Notre Dame university.

Brown was in conference with university officials yesterday afternoon. For years he had been on close terms with university officials. He was an intimate friend of Rockne.

HOCKEY TEAMS RESUME SCRAP

By The Associated Press.

MONTREAL, April 9.—The duel between youth as represented by the Chicago Blackhawks and experience in the persons of the Montreal Canadians is to be resumed tonight with the Stanley Cup, for years the emblem of the professional hockey championship of the world, as the stake.

Those two survivors of a long series of playoffs among the National Hockey league teams clash on the forum ice tonight in the third game of their final series. They divided the first two games in Chicago, each winning by a one-goal margin. The fourth game will be played Saturday night and the fifth, if necessary, on Tuesday.

Cadets Ring Up Good Air Times

Five Members Secure Pilots Pin With Good Marks.

Excellent times were recorded in the trial events held by the members of the American Air Cadets at a meeting Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. Elza Boram was victorious in the R. O. G. event. Bob Burbick won the fuselage medal contest and Jess Ambler, the endurance event.

Five members were successful in the attempts for Pilots Pins. They were Stanley Reukauf, Stanley Fisher, Robert Burbick, Elza Boram and Harold Baldwin.

Boram's time in the R. O. G. event was one minute and six and two-fifths seconds, made in his first trial. Bob Burbick's best time was 20 and four-fifths seconds. Burbick's time of 51 and one-fifth seconds was good enough to win the fuselage model contest. Jess Ambler was credited with 37 seconds.

Ambler won the endurance event with two minutes, 26 and four-fifths seconds. Burbick was second with two minutes and one and one-fifth seconds while Harold Baldwin was third with 17 seconds.

Loughran Meets Sharkey In June

Rivals to Clash in 10-round Battle in Philly.

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9. — Fried, and Fishman, Philadelphia promoters, announced today Tommy Loughran, former world's light heavyweight champion, had accepted their terms to meet Jack Sharkey in a 10-round bout at the Municipal stadium here on June 23.

Maurice Fishman, secretary-treasurer of the Arena corporation, plans to go to Boston tonight to confer with Jack Sharkey and his manager, Johnny Buckley, concerning the bout. He quoted Joe Smith, manager of Loughan, as saying Loughran was anxious for another bout with the Boston Gob and that he favored the stadium as the site.

Municipal stadium, scene of the first Dempsey-Tunney championship battle, accommodates more than 100,000 persons.

More than $30,000,000 was paid last year in workmen's compensation to workers or their dependents in the major industries of England.

SPORT Ramblings

By Robert Elliott

CLEVELAND sports fans won't be bothered much next Tuesday by the problem of "what to do?" In the afternoon Chicago's White Sox and Rog Peckinpaugh's Indians will pry open the American league season in the Forest City. Then at night Tommy Freeman will defend his welterweight title against the onslaught of Young Jack Thompson. Tommy took the crown away from Young Jack in a Cleveland ring not so long ago and unless he flashes some pretty fair boxing ability next week, he's going to be an ex-champion. There was quite a bit of doubt in many persons' minds about the result of that first meeting. The fight this time will be held in the spacious Public Hall where some 14,000 fans are expected to crowd their way in, acording to the promoters. The baseball shindig will draw its usual number.

Floyd Stone's Quakers at Salem, again are topheavy favorites to capture county track honors, unless for various reasons they are forced to withdraw from the county meet at Lisbon on May 9. The Northeastern district track meet is scheduled for the day after the county affair and Stone is averse to entering both. It is a well-known fact that he prefers the district to the county meet and so it looks as if the local shindig will have to forego the pleasure of having the Quaker City athletes. East Palestine and Wellsville both report fairly good cinder prospects, but Schachern is anything but hopeful over the local team. The Potters could only register one point in the county meet last year, but this record is at least likely to be broken, or at least we hope so.

ONE of the greatest individual athletic careers in the history of Ohio State university will come to a close with the completion of the Scarlet and Gray baseball season early in June. Wesley Fesler, one of State's greatest heroes, not even excluding the immortal Chick Harley, will play his last athletic contest for the Columbus school and his passing will be bewailed by everyone connected with State. Wes has made gridiron history in his three years of football competition, his basketball performances have welded poor Buckeye teams into dangerous threats and for two straight years he has won the trophy for scoring the most runs of any Ohio State baseball player during the diamond season. Goodbye Wes.

This fellow Harley is more of a tradition than anything else at Ohio. He's the man whose remarkable feats on the grid meant the building of State's gigantic stadium, one of the best in the mid-west. He was a unanimous choice for all-American three years running and is classed by those who had the opportunity of seeing him in action, as the greatest ball carrier in the mid-west's history. Now Chick is a rather pitiful sight, the victim of a tragedy in pro football that happened shortly after his departure from college. He was kicked in the head by an opposing linesman and has never fully recovered. State takes good care of Chick tho' and each year he is listed as an assistant coach in freshmen football. The world may forget Chick Harley, but never Ohio State.

Turkey will intensify its good-roads campaign this year.

Larkins Is Named Captain

Joe Herbert Also Given Freshmen Cage Award.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—Richard Larkins, guard, East Liverpool, is honorary varsity captain of Ohio State university's 1930-31 basketball team. He was elected at the annual banquet which followed the awarding of more than 140 athletic letters yesterday.

Awards included:

Varsity basketball — Larkins, Wesley Fesler, Youngstown; and Robert Lively, Dayton.

Reserve basketball—Junius Ferrall, Canton; Edward Weaver, Lima, and Earl Williams, Warren.

Freshman fencing—John Dunmyer, Hamilton, and Eugene Sollars, Washington Court House.

Freshman basketball—John Fugitt, Portsmouth; William Garner, Upper Sandusky; Cooper Taylor, Canton; Joe Herbert, East Liverpool.

Wrestling Reserve — Matin D. Varne, Lima, Lawrence Wonderleigh, Chillicothe.

Wrestling—Ernst Graff, Middletown.

Gymnastic—George W. Horton, Wilmington.

French West Africa and Equatorial Africa expect to benefit from France's plan to help its colonies in constructing new public works or extending the present ones.

WRESTLERS TO COMPETE.

By The Associated Press.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 9.—More than 100 amateur wrestlers, coming from all sections of the United States and from Hawaii, are seeking honors in the National A. A. U. wrestling tournament which opens here this afternoon. Fifty-five bouts were scheduled for the first day, with pairings to be made at noon.

Dunlap To Face Elmira Golfer

Medalist Eliminates H. J. Blue in First Round Match.

By The Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9. — George T. Dunlap Jr. of New York, whose 36-hole 145 won the medal by a ten-stroke margin, encountered H. A. Tryon, Elmira, N. Y., today in the second round of the North and South amateur golf tournament.

Playing under Princeton colors, Dunlap, intercollegiate champion, sailed through the first round yesterday with a 6 and 5 victory over H. J. Blue of Pinehurst.

Tryon advanced by trimming R. A. Stranshan, Toledo, Ohio, three and two.

Eugene Homans, Englewood, N. J., defending champion, ousted P. R. Ellis, Bridgeport, Conn., four and three.

Homans was matched against Suffern Tailer, Newport, R. I., who advanced by drubbing E. L. Scofield, New York, two and one.

Richard S. Tufts, Pinehurst, was matched with J. B. Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., and S. M. Marks Jr., Pittsburgh, with F. K. Wilson, York Harbor, Me., today.

PRESIDENT AGAIN TO TOSS FIRST BALL

The world champion Philadelphia Athletics led by Manager Connie Mack (lower right) will invade the stronghold of their foremost competitors, the Washington Senators, guided by Walter Johnson (lower left) when the two teams pry the lid off the American league season at Washington, April 14. President Hoover (above) will throw out the first ball to start the game.

Critics See No Changes

Athletics Doped to Retain American League Title.

By The United Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The Philadelphia Athletics, winners of two consecutive world championships, are heavy favorites to win the American league pennant for the third successive year, a poll of the eight United Press correspondents attached to the various teams in the junior loop revealed today.

Five of the eight correspondents who have been with their respective clubs since the start of the training season, picked the Athletics for first place, while the other three picked Connie Mack's proteges for the runner-up position.

Here are the way the clubs will finish in the opinion of the correspondents:

Philadelphia.
Washington.
New York.
Cleveland.
Detroit.
Chicago.
St. Louis.
Boston.

This, save that the St. Louis Browns finished ahead of Chicago, is exactly the way the teams stood at the close of the 1930 race.

LAST RITES FOR ROCKNE TODAY

By The Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 9.—Classes at the University of Notre Dame were dismissed this morning so all students might attend solemn high requiem mass for the repose of Knute Rockne's soul.

The Rev. Fr. Charles L. O'Donnell, S. C. S. C., president of the university was to sing the mass in Sacred Heart church, on the Notre Dame campus.

PROBE CHAIN STORE GIFTS

By The United Press.

NEW ORLEANS — The extent to which chain-stores and other out of town concerns contribute to civic support and charity, if at all, is being made the object of an intensive investigation by the New Orleans Association of Commerce.

Widespread statements that such organizations do not aid the cities in which they are located prompted the investigation. The information secured is to be compiled in an index of business, both local and foreign, which will be made public.

CHRYSLER EIGHT

—Learn about Dual High Performance

As distinctive as the Chrysler Eights are in design, they are even more distinguished in the field of performance.

It is safe to say that you will enjoy a Chrysler Eight more, and be prouder of it, and drive it oftener—and longer—than any other motor car you have ever owned.

You'll like it more, simply because the Chrysler Eight is so sweepingly different from other cars.

Not mere surface differences, but differences in basic engineering and construction.

Like nothing else in its results is the exclusive Multi-Range 4-speed transmission with Dual High gears and a quick, silent gear shift. One high gear is designed for hair-trigger pick-up and sprinting in city driving—the other is for the open road, giving higher car speeds with a marvelous smoothness due to reduced engine speeds.

This Multi-Range transmission with Dual High gears was one of the important factors that enabled the Chrysler Imperial Eight to win, within a few days, twelve A.A.A. Contest Board stock car speed records for one to five miles.

For a real treat, drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler. After all, performance is the test of automobile value—and Chrysler has the performance.

STOCK MARKET IS TREMULOUS

Early Advances Lost After First Half Hour.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The stock market was somewhat tremulous in the early transactions today.

Advances of a point or so were numerous in the first few minutes, but by the end of the first half hour, most of the advance had had been lost, and several prominent issues sold fractionally under yesterday's close.

Trading was in light volume, and it was apparent yesterday's rally was not decisive enough to discourage the bears. An early upturn of 2 points in Allied Chemical was soon cancelled. Auburn dropped 12 points, then regained much of its loss.

Issues off fractionally included U. S. Steel, Radio, Standard of N. J., General Electric, and American Telephone. Union Pacific, Atchison, and Southern Railway declined a point.

Stocks pushing up a point or so in the first few minutes included American Water Works, Stone and Webster, Electric Autolite, Fox, Eastman, Case, Byers, General Motors, and Dupont.

Sterling cables held steadily at $4.85.

GRAIN

Chicago

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 9.—Buying orders predominated in grains early today, and prices averaged higher. European demand was reported better, and attention focused largely on an official statement that stocks of wheat in all United States markets were diminishing, with the question of grain storage not a serious one. Opening ⅛-⅝ cents up, wheat afterward continued firm. Corn started unchanged to ⅜c higher, sagged temporarily, and then rallied.

TODAY

"never learn anything and never forget anything" never will come back.

THE DEPARMENT OF LABOR, despite all the talk against lowering wages, finds energetic wage slashing in progress. It began one year after the depression in 1929. There is official record of 340 wage reductions in March. In January, according to the government, There were 6,050,000 idle. The American Federation says there were more. You also are told that "funds for the jobless are about exhausted. A crisis is feared."

The British, who know that anything is cheaper than revolution, take care of their difficulty with a dole, handing money direct to the family to be spent for the family, and avoiding the heavy "overhead" of charitable organizations.

FIND RUM UNDER GARAGE.

LONGWORTH DIES IN SOUTH

Speaker of House Succumbs in Aiken, S. C.

ally, Mr. Longworth told the last assembly of the seventy-first house:

"Perhaps this is the last time I will address you from this rostrum. It is only an all-wise providence who is going to determine which of the two major parties will organize the next house.

"With whatever providence may decree, I am abundantly satisfied. If I am to retire from this office I do so with profound gratitude to my colleagues, not so much for having elevated me to this, the greatest office in any legislative branch in any government of the world, but more for the evidence of the esteem and confidence you have had in me."

His gavel then adjourned the congress.

Born With Wealth.

Born with wealth and position on November 5, 1869, in Cincinnati, his home ever since, Mr. Longworth, after attending Franklin school there, was graduated in 1891 from Harvard. He spent one year in Harvard Law school, then transferred to the Cincinnati Law school, graduating from that institution in 1894.

Although admitted to the bar, he did not practice to any extent. Instead he became interested in civic affairs, and soon was immersed in politics in the city over which "Boss" Cox then held sway. Despite his persistent inclination to remain "regular" in political controversies, he declined to take dictation from the Cox organization and never was closely identified with it.

After serving on the Cincinnati school board, he was elected to the Ohio house of representatives. Later he became a member of the Ohio senate, serving there with Warren G. Harding and forming a friendship with the future president which continued until Mr. Harding's death.

Elected When Only 33

Elected to the 58th congress in 1902, when only 33 years old, Mr. Longworth first served as a member of the foreign affairs committee. Later he was assigned to the ways and means committee which has initial jurisdiction over tariff and revenue legislation. Applying himself to a close study of these problems, he was in a position to take an important part in the shaping of the country's tax policy.

He led in the fights against the Democratic Underwood tariff and for the Payne-Aldrich and post-war Fordney-McCumber schedules. He was speaker when the Hawley-Smoot act passed.

During his speakership Mr. Longworth formed with Republican leader Tilson and Chairman Snell of the rules committee a group termed the "triumvirate" by Republicans and Democrats alike. The rule of the triumvirate, irksome Republicans and labelled "tyrannical" by Democrats, led to a bi-partisan move for procedure more responsive to minority demands. Such revision was forecast for the next congress.

The triumvirate broke on one notable occasion in the last session when Mr. Longworth and Snell sided against President Hoover on the bill to increase loans on veterans compensation certificates. Tilson led the President's unsuccessful effort to kill the bill, eventually passed over his veto.

Married in 1906.

As a young representative, Mr. Longworth courted Alice Roosevelt, daughter of the president, and their wedding in the East room of the White House on Feb. 17, 1906, was a brilliant affair, witnessed by nearly 1,000 notables. Congress adjourned for the day to do honor to the tenth White House bride and the representative from Ohio.

Mr. Longworth confided later to friends that he soon realized it was somewhat of a political handicap to be identified as the "son-in-law of T. R." and the "husband of Alice Roosevelt." Some of his political foes sought to attach the unofficial title of "crown prince" to young Longworth, but he succeeded by his genial manner in disarming them, and, with a realization that if he was to forge ahead in the political world, he must stand on his own feet, struck out to ring up accomplishments as a legislator on his own account.

Family ties gave way to party allegiance in the fall of 1912 when Mr. Longworth became a candidate for re-election. Seeking re-election to the presidency was William H. Taft, a fellow Cincinnatian, who was the Republican party candidate. Opposing him, in addition to the Democratic candidate, Woodrow Wilson, was Mr. Longworth's father-in-law, running on the Progressive ticket.

With the encouragement of his wife, the daughter of Mr. Roosevelt, the Cincinnati representative declined to bolt his party, supported Mr. Taft and went down to defeat by a plurality of 101 votes at the hands of a Democrat who triumphed because the normal Republican vote was split between Mr. Longworth and a candidate endorsed by the Bull Moosers. Two years later, however, Mr. Longworth returned to congress for an uninterrupted stay which culminated in his successful candidacy for the speakership.

Popular Among Colleagues.

Few men serving in congress could boast of greater popularity among his colleagues than Mr. Longworth. He had political enemies, but they were relatively few in comparison with his wide circle of friends, which included men of all political complexions. One of his "cronies" was Representative Garner, a Democrat from Texas, with whom he served on the ways and means committee, while another was Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, who, as the Democratic leader, matched wits with him on the floor when he was leading the Republican forces.

Even the LaFollette insurgents, whom he was instrumental in barring from party councils for their refusal to support the Republican ticket in 1924, agreed that "Nick," as he was known to his friends, was "a good fellow."

He was unyielding in his attitude toward party irregulars when plans were made for the organization of the 68th congress, but he took the view that important legislation frequently must be made the subject of compromise. It was this opinion that led him to approve a modification of the Mellon tax reduction plan in the 67th congress when the proposal was threatened with defeat as a result of a Democratic-Republican insurgent coalition.

Although a consistent supporter of the administration, Mr. Longworth differed from both President Harding and Coolidge on some issues, voting on one occasion for the soldiers' bonus which Mr. Coolidge vetoed.

Opposed 18th Amendment.

Coming as he did from Cincinnati, which repeatedly piled up substantial majorities against prohibition, he opposed the 18th amendment, but, recognizing sentiment in congress for prohibition, he made no effort as a party leader to bring about nullification or modification.

Bald and portly and invariably good natured, Mr. Longworth had a knack for telling anecdotes, and frequently made use of a funny story to ward off a thrust from his Democratic opposition during oratorical skirmishes.

Off the floor of the house he usually could be seen puffing a cigarette or a pipe. He usually did as he pleased, although warned by friends that it might be political suicide—this warning coming when he persisted in wearing spats when many members of the house considered them dudish, in appearing at night sessions in dinner clothes at a time when they were not generally worn, and in playing golf, when it was regarded as only a "rich man's game."

In college, Mr. Longworth went in for rowing, and later kept himself in condition by playing tennis, riding horse back, fencing, and taking long morning hikes, bundled up in a heavy sweater. An accomplished musician, he played the violin in a manner that won the commendation of critics. He also was a pianist of ability.

Two weeks before house Republicans in February, 1925, selected him as their candidate for speaker by a vote of 140 to 85 a daughter, Paulina, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Longworth. She was their first child, and as evidence of the Ohio representative's popularity, he was cheered by his colleagues when he appeared on the floor.

WASHINGTON SHOCKED.

Speaker's Death is Sudden Blow to National Capital.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The death of Speaker Longworth came as a sudden blow today to official Washington.

Word spread quickly over the Capital, where he had been known and liked for more than a quarter of a century. Expressions of regret were spontaneous.

Flags on the capitol were half-staffed 15 minutes after his death.

Funeral arrangements were held in abeyance pending word from Mrs. Longworth at Aiken. Sergeant-at-arms Rogers of the house said the last word from her mentioned Saturday as the day for the funeral.

President Hoover upon learning of the death of Speaker Longworth ordered Colonel Campbell B. Hodges, his military aid, to leave for Aiken at once by airplane to assist Mrs. Longworth in any way possible.

DEEP GRIEF IN CAPITAL

General "Nick" was called "Natural Human Being."

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Under the mourning for Speaker Longworth there was deeper grief in the capital today for the genial "Nick" who was what Representative McDuffie of Alabama, called "a natural human being."

"There are a lot of Republicans we could do without", McDuffie, the Democratic whip wrote the speaker just a few days ago, "but you are not of them."

The tribute went with hope for quick recovery from the cold that became fatal pneumonia.

It was "Nick" who is said to have inspired Democratic leader Garner of Texas, to refer, once, to "about 200 Longworth votes" which concededly depended upon the decision of the speaker.

He was a big man, this "Nick". He was bald and ruddy-faced, uncommonly healthy. His clothes and the handsome cane he carried were those of the wealth and position to which he was born. "Nick's" voice was a smooth as his hands.

Smile In His Greeting.

When this man greeted anyone, he smiled; and his directness was the same with the messengers to whom he invariably nodded in the house lobby, as with the titled European he would welcome to his home in flawless French.

The evenness of his temper was traditional. So was his capacity for fraternal good will in politics.

Newspapermen were the speaker's friends and he was theirs. through his ever open door they passed singly and in groups, confident he would answer their questions directly or explain why not.

On him they depended, often, for implied "steers" that served in predicting dubious outcomes of controversies.

He was by native political philosophy a regular Republican. But his spectacular defection on the veteran's loan bill only last session was a demonstration that his party loyalty was not abject.

CERMAK BROOM IS POISED IN WINDY CITY

Chicago Mayor Ready For Immediate Cleanup.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 9.—The Democratic boom which swept Anton J. Cermak in and reduced William Hale Thompson out of the mayorship, was poised for action today.

Cermak's formal induction as Chicago's new world's fair mayor was the order of the day, with Cermak declaring he had promised to "clean out the city hall' and that he proposed to "lose no time in doing it."

"The bums who hang around city hall are going to be swept right out" Cermak told interviewers yesterday. Almost simultaneously he told London newspaper men in a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation that his advise to Alphonse Capone was for him to stay out of Chicago for the next four years.

"Capone is under sentence here, you know, and I suggest that he stay in Florida," Cermak said.

Administration of the oath of office to Cermak had been tentatively set for tomorrow, but completion of official canvass of Tuesday's voting in record time yesterday, made possible this formality today.

SCOUT CAMP AT DUNN-EDEN OPENS JULY 6

75 Boys Expected To Enroll For Lake Visit.

The annual summer camp of Columbiania County Council Boy Scouts will open July 6 at Dunn-Eden lake, six miles north of Salem in Mahoning county, County Executive Charles E. Felton, announced today. Approximately 75 boys are expected to attend the camp, which will be in session for six weeks, divided into three periods of two weeks each. A nominal fee of $5.00 is charged for each period.

Swimming and canoeing on the artificial lake will be a feature of the camp. Handicraft in leather, woodcarving, and Indian silver-craft, as well as archery golf, will be included in the program. An Indian village, composed of teepee tents, will be constructed on a point adjacent to the lake where the scouts will learn the steps of the Indian dance and create Indian costumes and head-dress.

A staff of adults, skilled in camp craft, will instruct the campers in hiking, games, scout test work, nature lore, handicraft and water activities will be provided.

Eagleton's Glen, between Lisbon and Salem has been the camp site for the last three years.

MODIFICATION IS URGED IN OHIO TAX BILL

Broker Says Levy on Credits Can be Evaded.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.— The preliminary plan for taxing intangible wealth to relieve the burden on real estate, was drawn up by the joint tax committee of the legislature had produced the first requests for modification today.

Representative Willis D. Gradison (R.), of Hamilton county, told the committee the proposed tax of five mills on the dollar on customers' credits held by brokers was not all-inclusive and could be evaded.

Gradison, himself in the brokerage business, said that banks in Ohio are running in real competition with the brokerage houses. A customer who buys stock from a broker on a margin account would be taxed, but the same person, he claimed, could escape the tax by buying the stock through a bank, paying for part of it and giving a note for the rest.

The Ohio Manufacturers' association also submitted a resolution to the committee, complaining about the plan of authorizing the state taxation commission to levy the assessments on such personal property as machinery and inventories. The resolution urged that this power be left with the county auditors.

William E. Peterson of 114 Potters alley has received an award of merit for his entry in the repaired shoe contest, conducted in connection with the fourth annual Shoe Repairers' and Dealers' exposition in Chicago recently.

Thousands of pairs of shoes from every state in the union were entered in the contest. In this contest awards were received by less than five per cent of the entries. The award carried with it a medal and an engraved diploma.

GERRYMANDER BILL IS DEAD SECOND TIME

Senator Lewis Fails In Vote Change Move.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—The Marshall congressional redistricting bill was dead a second time today, all because Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel, who presides over the senate failed to recognize Majority Leader Earl R. Lewis, in time for him to change his vote from negative to affirmative.

The redistricting measure, defeated last Monday night, was brought upfor reconsideration and the roll call showed a tie vote of 16 each before the result was announced. Senator Lewis who had voted against the bill, sought to change his vote to the affirmative and thus pass the bill, but the lieutenant governor failed to recognize him and declared the bill lost. It needed 17 votes to pass it.

A little later, Senator L. L. Malshall (R), Cleveland, sponsor of the bill, made a motion that the lieutenant governor correct the vote and allow Senator Lewis to change his ballot. Pickrel ruled the motion out of order.

Senator Marshall then sought to have the senate compel the lieutenant governor to vote to break the tie, contending it was his constitutional duty to do so. Pickrel again ruled the motion out of order, claiming that the constitution does not give him the right to vote on the passage of bills.

While reconsidering the bill attempt was made by Senator August W. Weber (D), Franklin county to obtain adoption of an amendment that would have left the districts as they stand today and divide the state into a northern and a southern district from which to elect the two additional congressmen at large, one from each district. The amendment was overwhelmingly defeated.

BRAZIL, U. S. ARE FRIENDLY

Y. M. C. A. Worker Addresses Lions Club.

John H. Warner, Y. M. C. A. representative of Buenos Aires, Argentine, who is making a series of addresses here under the auspices of the local Y, discussed the possibilities of future development in Brazil in a talk at the weekly dinner-meeting of the Lions club in the Travelers' hotel Wedneday night.

Judge Harry Brokaw, who was in charge of the program, introduced the speaker. A farewell vote was tendered in honor of President and Mrs. Albert McLain, who will leave next Tuesday for a six-weeks' tour in Europe.

In his discussion, Mr. Warner emphasized the great potential wealth of Brazil and explained what part the United States could play in its development.

"Brazil is on better terms of friendship with the United States than any other South American country," he said. "And they should be. Brazil produces the greater part of the world's supply of coffee and the United States buys 50 percent of this, placing no tariff on it.

"Brazil manufactures no automobiles, but turns to the United States for its supply, saying that the American-made machines are the best in the world. The United States is a sort of hero to Brazil. They believe in us and pattern after us. They are looking to this nation for leadership and in this manner the United States may do a great work.

"Brazil is much larger than the United States and has vast resources of raw materials and natural power. In the northern section there are 2,000,000 square miles of virgin forest, containing the finest kinds of hardwood and rubber trees.

"There are 378 great waterfalls within the country, some of them larger than Niagara and capable of producing millions of horsepower. Brazil is the pioneering nation of today and, with proper leadership, may in time become one of the great nations of the world. It is up to the United States to supply that leadership."

"I'M NOT A HERO," WRITES BOY INVITED TO WHITE HOUSE

BRYAN UNTEIDT TELLS STORY OF BLIZZARD

13-year-old Lad Depicts Ordeal in Bus.

FIVE CHUMS DIE

He is Thrilled at Chance to Visit Hoovers.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Bryan Untiedt, 13-year-old hero of the Towner, Colo., blizzard in which five of his schoolmates were frozen to death when the school bus stalled, is thrilled by President Hoover's invitation to visit the White House. Here is his own account of his reactions, written for The Associated Press.

By BRYAN UNTIEDT

What will the rest of the kids think?

Of course, that's the first thing to come into your head when you've received an invitation from President Hoover to visit him. I wonder if the others who went through that ordeal in the bus won't think I'm getting more than is due me.

As a matter of fact, I think I am. It's hard to realize that the invitation came, and it's hard to realize just what it's all about.

It's hard, too, to have everybody around talking about me being a hero and all that. I can think of lots of acts in history that were a whole lot more heroic—if they are going to insist on calling me a hero—than what I did.

The rest of the kids in that bus shared the same misfortunes that I did, and it seems maybe a little unjust for me to receive the invitation from the President.

Certainly I want to go to Washington. But dropping out of a clear sky as it did, the invitation leaves

POLITE TICKET FOR VIOLATORS

By International News Service.

BAKER, Ore.—Visiting motorists who get a "ticket" for traffic violations in Baker this summer will undoubtedly heave a sigh of relief when instead of the usual "and you are hereby notified to appear in court etc.", they read:

"The city of Baker extends its greetings to you and hopes your visit may be a pleasant one. You have unknowingly violated the following traffic law . . . . Knowing this was unintentional and that you will not err in this respect again there will be no penalty to you. If I may be of any service to you during your stay in our city I solicit your calling at my office in the city hall, 1st street and Auburn avenue."

The signature of the chief of police is on each ticket.

MAN ENDS HIS LIFE.

By The Associated Press.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 9. — Stangly F. Hoffman, 62, prominent resident of Philippi, ended his life here Tuesday by throwing himself under a street car. A will, found in his clothing, left his estate to his widow. Hoffman was a former county clerk of Barbour county and at the time of his death was director of a Philippi bank.

Miss Edith Woolcott, who died recently at Cheshire, England, left $500 to a doctor "who never overcharged" and twice the usual pay to the gravediggers who dug her grave.

13-Year-Old Colorado Blizzard Hero Used to Life of Hardship

Bryan Untiedt is Typically Western Boy, Born to Outdoors in Western Tableland.

By The Associated Press.

LAMAR, Colo., April 9 — A typically western boy, born to the outdoors in the tableland of southeastern Colorado, Bryan Untiedt at the age of 13 finds himself a recognized hero.

President Hoover, returning from a visit to Caribbean Islands, read of Bryan's fight to keep alive 19 of his Towner, Colo., schoolmates who were marooned late in March in a bus for 36 hours while the worst blizzard in 40 years howled around them.

So he invited Bryan to Washington as his guest for a day, as soon as the lad is able to go.

The boy also has been recommended by a service organization and the commanding officer of a Wyoming army post for the Carnegie medal.

Bryan is wise well beyond his 13 years. He has lived all his life in a farming district, has grown accustomed to hardships unknown to the city child of the same years, and is getting his education in a one-room schoolhouse from two teachers.

He is one of 23 pupils in the Summit Hill school, 10 miles south of Towner.

He is one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Untiedt. His brother, Orlo, seven, was one of the five child victims of the blizzard.

Two sisters, Evelyn and Ome, also were passengers on the ill-fated bus, which was discovered in a ditch, by their father.

The youth is modest, exceedingly so, and has steadfastly refused to claim credit. He is regarded by his teacher as an especially good student, with a faculty for writing.

As all but 620 of the 45,000 apartments in Helsingfords, Finland, are occupied, making a record for occupancy for the city, a movement to build more has been started.

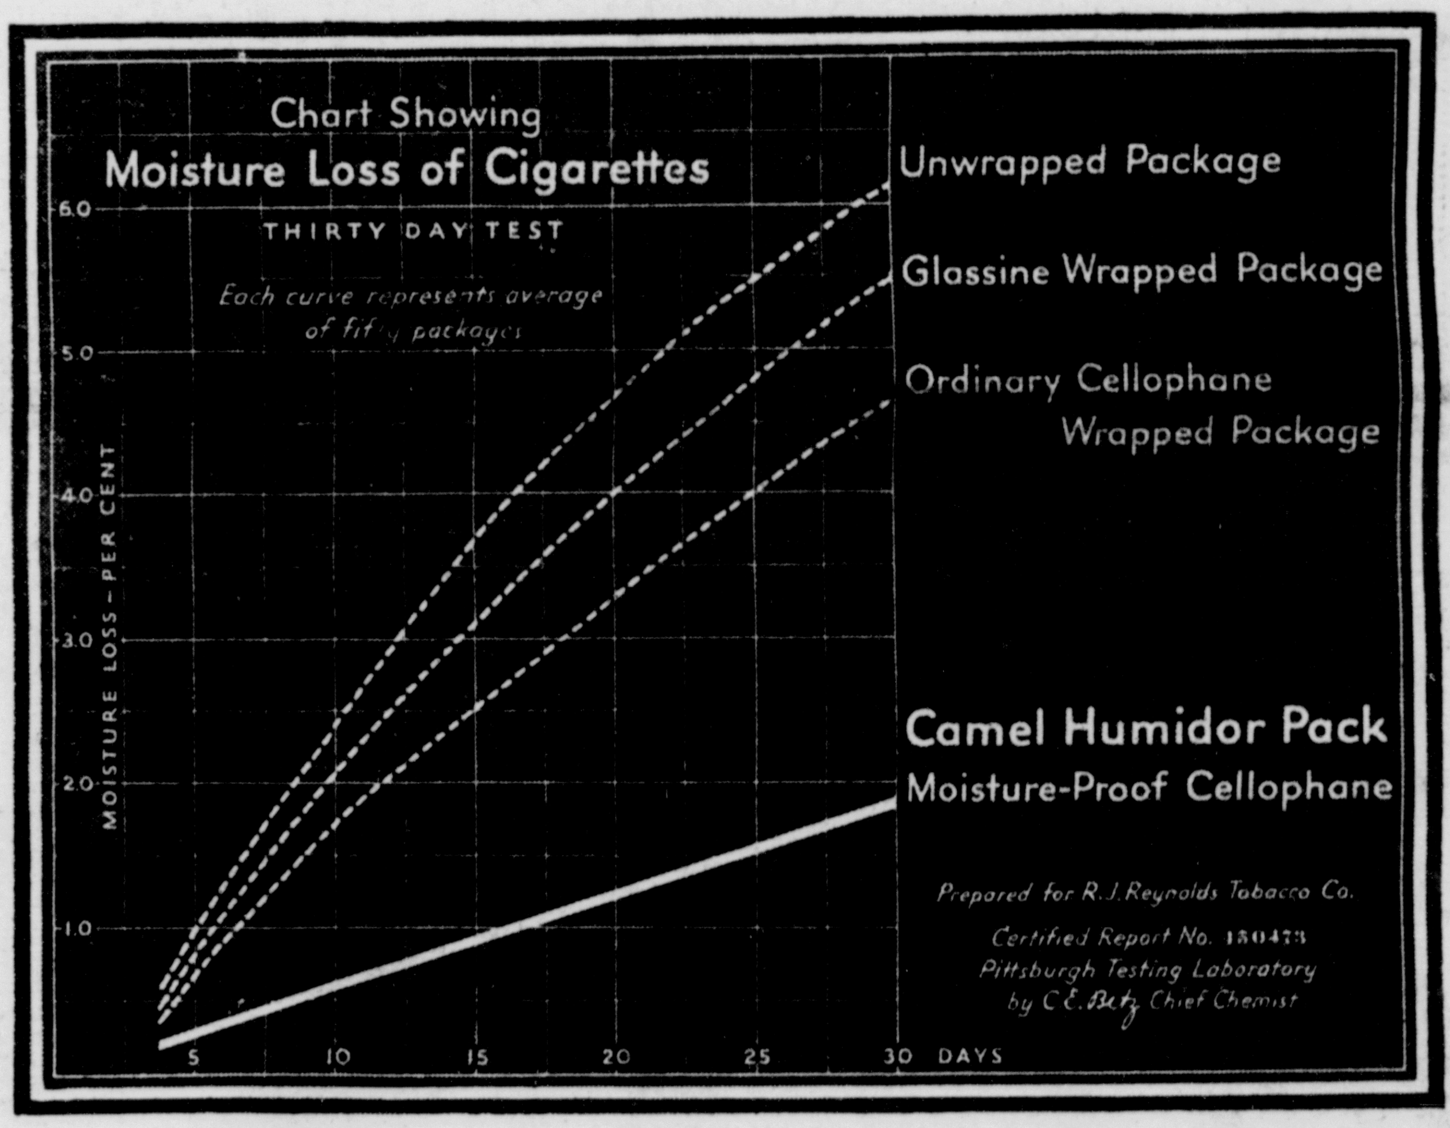
CAMELS are wrapped Only in MOISTURE-PROOF Cellophane



Cigarettes in prime condition have a moisture content of about 10%. It will be seen by the chart that cigarettes in the ordinary wrapped package lose more than half of their total moisture in thirty days and that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the factory freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unfailing guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

Factory-fresh Camels are air-sealed in the new Sanitary Package which keeps the dust and germs out and keeps the flavor in.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

By Percival Christopher Wren—Author of BEAU GESTE, BEAU IDEAL
MYSTERIOUS WAYE

SYNOPSIS: John Waye St. Clair recovers his young daughter from the kidnapers by sending them his famous diamond, The Unsetting Sun, and other precious stones. But the anguished father finds the child insane and she dies shortly after. Turning his whole life toward vengeance, St. Clair becomes John Waye, denizen of the world of crooks, after having left evidence convincing the world of his suicide. Thus disguised, he trails every clue that might lead to his child's abductors. Arrested unjustly and convicted through circumstantial evidence, and sent up for life in San Paolo Jail. There a guard, Murphy, corrupted by "Uncle," a powerful underworld leader whose aid Waye has asked, helps Waye plan his escape.

Chapter 33.

CAUTIOUS GUARDS.

AT ten o'clock at night Murphy passed my cell door and heard heart-rending groans that he expected to hear. Supposing (as he stated, in evidence, later) that the occupant of the cell had attempted suicide or was dying, he unlocked the door and stepped inside.

Instantly an automatic pistol appeared in front of his face and a grim voice said: "Put 'em up."

As he did so, the voice continued:

"Here's where I die—after I've killed you—or else I make my getaway. Strip!" And Guard Murphy pretended that he was trapped, and that unless he instantly obeyed every order of this desperate criminal, he would be a dead man.

"Quick," I growled. "Cap, trousers, everything . . . If I get clear you'll never need to work again."

"I'm trusting ye," whispered Guard Murphy.

"I'm trusting you too, Murphy," I said, "but turn to me and cross your wrists behind you. I shall only want one hand and my teeth for the job, and my other hand will be holding the gun against your liver."

In about three minutes, Murphy's uniforms, boots, cap and belt were on the floor of the cell, and his hands were bound together behind him, and I could now lay the pistol aside. In another minute his feet were tied together.

Having gagged him I dressed myself as a guard, and, taking his keys, opened the door, stepped out into the corridor, and locked the door behind me.

I was free—inside the prison, and if every man re-acted correctly to my suddenly presented pistol, there was a chance that I should be free outside it too.

Assuming the attitude of a guard on duty, I tramped down the corridor toward the watchman who, as I knew, would be outside the big common-cell known for some reason as The Fort.

If the watchman took no notice of me, as was quite likely in that dim light, I would pass on.

As I passed him the watchman looked up.

"Say, Patsy," he said, and then his eyes and mouth opened wider. "What the . . ."

"Stick 'em up!" I growled. "Quick!" and his hands shot up as high as he could put them.

I took his pistol.

"Unlock the door and get inside, quick," I said.

The watchman opened that four-inch iron door more quickly than usual, and went in The Fort as though it was his home. It was — for quite a little while.

Like Guard Murphy, he was safely out of action until some one other than myself was in possession of the big key which I turned and withdrew from the lock. The watchman had done me splendid service by recognizing me and causing me to drive him into the cell, for he had provided a perfect solution of the greater part of my problem.

Whither the watchman had gone his comrades should go—every guard, watchman, trusty, or other official who recognized me or showed suspicion.

That big cell, I realized, had no window in the ordinary sense of the word. There would be no audible cry for help from The Fort.

Proceeding on my way toward the Warden's Office, I emerged into the blessed fresh air of the dark night, and marched boldly across the bare, inner quadrangle which was the convicts' exercise-ground, to where a guard stood sentinel beneath a lamp.

As I approached him at an angle, whistling an Irish air which was a favorite with Murphy, I got within arm's length of the sentry without his taking the slightest notice of me, and, with a lightning grab, I disarmed him, at the same time growling, with as sinister a scowl as I could achieve: "Hands up! . . . Quick!"

Up went the guard's hands, for life was as dear to him as to most of us.

Within a minute I had shepherded my victim to the Fort door, and made him open it and enter.

The look of disappointment on the imprisoned watchman's face as he saw two automatics and the guard, instead of release, was ludicrous.

"Don't either of you be near the door, next time it opens," I said. "I may get mad and make a real killing."

The door closed gently, and again I locked it and withdrew the key.

Thrice I repeated this process, and each time the proceedings passed of without a hitch.

It was unbelievably easy—owing to the fact, that, being in the uniform of a guard, I was able to present a pistol at my victim before he had the faintest idea of any thing being wrong.

It was of pleasing interest to me to notice that, on each occasion, the heavy iron door of The Fort opened upon silence and apparent emptiness.

The men within knew that, certainly two and probably four, would be killed before their concerted rush could get at me.

It was in almost a state of exaltation, that I, coolly, swiftly, and in business-like manner, went about my affair until, one by one, I had captured every single guard inside the prison.

It was, of course, my good-fortune and a weakness in the prison system that, in no case, was one guard in actual sight of another. But for this I could hardly have succeeded.

Having safely disposed of all the inner guards, I now turned to the more dangerous task of dealing with the Warden's office staff—if any were still on duty—and the outer guard at the prison gates.

Tramping heavily, whistling, and jangling my keys, I marched up to the door of the office, threw it open, tramped in with all the assurance of the Warden himself, closed the door, and saw that the only occupant of the room was the prison bookkeeper—who stared at me in amazement.

He stared harder, with yet more amazement, as a big automatic appeared a foot from his face, and the unknown guard gave the peremptory order.

"Signal the outer guard to open the prison gates!"

"You win," he smiled, came round the desk as if to pass me, suddenly struck the pistol from my hand, and sprang on me like a tiger.

But he was fighting for his duty, whereas I was fighting for my life and the punishment of Rosemary's murderers—and, before long, I was on top, with my hands like a vise on his throat.

When his face was beginning to turn purple, I suddenly released my grip with one hand, drew another pistol from my pocket, and held it to his face.

"Do we both die?" I growled.

"No," he wheezed. "You win."

"Get up and give the signal to the outer guard at the gates," I ordered.

Staggering to his feet, the clerk went over to the bell-pull, two pistols threatening him from behind. I certainly wasn't going to shoot him, but he didn't know that.

"Don't give the wrong signal," I said, "unless you're really tired of life."

"No," he promised. "I'll sure give the right signal."

But I saw a triumphant thought flash through his mind. He would give the signal, and, as soon as the inner gate was opened, and I marched out of the room to escape, he would give the alarm to the guard at the gate when I was halfway there.

"I'll give the right signal," he answered me, and did so.

As he turned to me with a smile, I swiftly struck him a crashing blow on the point of the jaw with my right fist, in which I held the heavy pistol by the middle, as one does a dumb-bell.

He crumpled up without a sound.

No More Piles

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Specialist Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new remedy known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's prescription is a quick acting yet harmless internal medicine. After years of study he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy, that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer of itching, bleeding or protruding piles to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay, Mathews Cut Rate and good druggists everywhere are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will positively end piles in any form or money back.

On that honorable basis every pile sufferer should secure a bottle of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID tablets today.—Adv.

FIRE RECALLS HALF CENTURY OLD TRAGEDY

Site of Triple Murder Near Marysville Passes.

By International News Service.

MARYSVILLE, O.—With the burning of the old Marie Scott house at Hall's corners on the Columbus road near here recently passed the site of a triple murder that aroused the entire state 50 years ago. The building destroyed by fire, was the home of three colored persons who were slain by Robert Carnes, a farm hand, on the night of January 17, 1881.

Carnes, sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary on May 13, 1881 and released a few years ago when he developed an illness that soon caused his death, killed Marie Ellen Scott, a young girl; her aunt, Ophelia Clark, 90, and Charles Good, 13, according to the records of County Clerk Floyd Karns.

Marie Scott, her aged aunt, the boy and of her sisters lived on the farm. The evening of the murder the two sisters visited a neighbor and when they returned home about 10 p. m., that night, they discovered that Marie, the aunt and the boy had been beaten to death with an old-fashioned frying pan.

Carnes was not in the house when the crime was discovered, but came shortly afterward and said that he had just returned from Plain City. There was blood on the sleeve of his coat, and on his boots, which he explained was due to his killing a rabbit the day before.

Carnes was arrested on charges of murder, it being alleged that he attempted to attack Marie Scott and had killed her and then murdered her aged aunt and the boy when they came downstairs after being awakened by the screams of the girl.

The man who heard the trial and handed down the sentence was the late Judge John L. Porter, the father of Judge E. W. Porter of Richwood, who occupied the common pleas bench in this county for several terms until he was defeated for re-election by 29 votes last fall.

With the burning of the building probably the last vestige of the crime that attracted so much attention a half century ago has disappeared. The court officials, the attorneys, members of the petit and grand juries, and others who were associated with the trial or case in any way, have long since died.

Stomach Upset

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edward's Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do he work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. —Adv.

BUMPER FRUIT CROP IS SEEN

Recent Rains and Cool Weather Aid Ohio Orchards, State Market Chief Says.

By The United Press.

COLUMBUS, O., April 9. — A bumper fruit crop in Ohio this year was predicted in a statement issued today by E. A. Fleming chief of the division of markets in the state department of agriculture.

"The recent rains accompanied by cool weather have brought about a condition which is not far from ideal as far as fruit prospects in the state are concerned," Fleming said.

"At present the outlook for a bumper crop of apples, cherries, peaches, pears and small fruits seems assured. Unless the buds are killed by late frosts the apple crop will undoubtedly be one of the largest in many years.

"From reports being received it is reasonably safe to assume a very large acreage of potatoes will be planted. The same can also be said of tomatoes and cabbage."

NOW SOHIO TEMPERS GASOLINE

by FLOYD GIBBONS

And just as heat rouses flashing new life in dead metal..so this new heat-tempering process puts a new edge on motor fuel

HELLO EVERYBODY!

You know, it has been my experience that if you stand around long enough where people are working, somebody will come along sooner or later and shove a broom in your hand. I've had it happen to me so often, in so many different places, that it's got so I sort of expect it. But doggoned if those Sohio folks didn't knock me clean off my pins with what they sashayed up and handed me while I was getting the low-down on their new heat-tempered gasoline. It wasn't any broom, boys and girls. No, by jingo! It was a sword—a regular old snickersnee, edged up so sharp, that you could have shaved with it.

Sounds sort of goofy, doesn't it? Just the same, it's a fact. That sword was no optical illusion, no fake. It was the finest piece of steel that I have ever handled. You could bend the blade double and it would spring straight and true again the instant it was released. I did that several times—just dumbly obeying instructions—before I finally got the point.

Yes, sir, and it was the main point, too. The very point they have been trying to drill into my skull. The big point that distinguishes heat-tempered gasoline from all the other motor fuels the world has known up to now.

They had told me at least a hundred times that Sohio X-70 was heat-tempered gasoline, but that hadn't meant a thing to me. Far as I was concerned, it was just a slick-sounding phrase. It went in one ear and out the other. On the square, when they flashed that sword on me I half suspected they wished I'd do a Harry-Carry fall on it and cut myself out of the picture.

However, I stayed in the picture—and with the aid of that gleaming shibouk I sure got a lot better focus on Sohio X-70.

It was heat-tempering, they told me, that had given the sword that wonderful double-jointed quality. If it hadn't been heat-tempered—and right to a turn—its first bend would have been its last. It would have snapped. And the dickens of a lot of good it would have been on the battle-field, busting the first time its owner smote a smite with it.

In a general kind of a way, we all know that tempering improves steel. Well, just so, heat-tempering puts life and power into ordinary gasoline that turns it into a super fuel for automobiles. That was the discovery of the Sohio scientific researchers which now makes heat-tempered X-70 available to the Ohio motoring public.

Seems that it all boils down to a matter of molecules. Tempering changes the physical structure of steel—stirs up the molecules and lines them into new combinations. Heat does the trick with steel, and it does the same trick with gasoline.

Apply enough heat to gasoline—say one thousand degrees or more—and the hydrocarbon molecules that composed it go looping the loop all over the lot. In the course of the riot the atoms that make up the hydrocarbon molecules change partners, and in these new unions they yield an increased energy that was just a dream until Sohio's chemical sorcerers pulled their scoop with X-70.

Sixty years ago when John D. Rockefeller's first little one-lung refinery started up on the site of today's great Sohio plant, the boys who operated it wouldn't have recognized a molecule if they'd seen one. Of course, they never did see one. Even up to the present time, no man has ever seen a molecule; for molecules are so infinitesimally tiny that the most powerful modern microscopes cannot bring them into view. All the same, the whole art of refining—every development in that art—revolves around the molecule.

Crude petroleum as it comes out of the earth and into the refinery is a hodge-podge containing ingredients that range from gasoline clear down to asphalt. The earliest and simplest method of refining consisted of building a fire under a tank of crude, and trapping and condensing the vapors as they boiled off. Gasoline has the lowest boiling point of all the various ingredients and is the first of them to stew away from the crude. That—scientists know it now—is because it is made up of the lightest molecules.

Until the heat of the mass reaches four hundred and thirty-seven degrees, the molecules that waft off in vapor are gasoline molecules. The remaining oils each have their own range of boiling points, according to the weight of the molecules composing them. Kerosene follows gasoline in saying good-bye to home and mother, and steaming off into the condensing coils.

A lot of us who still manage to get around without using wheel-chairs can remember when the petroleum product in greatest demand was kerosene. In those days the gasoline that boiled off ahead of the kerosene was just so much waste. It was worse than waste from the pioneer refiner's point of view. Not only was there no commercial use for it, but it was a menace.

Sohio old-timers tell me of an early-day chore at the refinery that sounds mighty funny in this day and age. It was a boy's job, yet a doggone important one. At night—every night—the boy would go into the deserted refinery, open a valve, and let the day's accumulation of that dangerous and useless stuff called gasoline run off into the river. But that quaint custom had to be abandoned when boys downstream discovered they could set the river on fire by tossing in a match.

Then the automobile and the electric light came along, and the demand gradually and steadily shifted from kerosene to gasoline. Not many years passed before refiners were shedding tears over that spilled gasoline of the old days. Benzine-buggies had multiplied so rapidly on the road that it looked as if the supply of gasoline must run short. And it might have, if a method of getting a bigger gasoline yield from the crude hadn't been discovered.

That development—a process called "cracking"—came about 1910. Cracking is—hold your hat for this blast!—the "pyrogenic decomposition of petroleum hydrocarbons." In the process, the heavier oils left after the extraction of gasoline and kerosene were heated under pressure until their pot-bellied molecules broke up into smaller ones. It was just a process of making little ones out of big ones. When the "cracked" residue was reheated, the busted-up molecules vaporized at boiling points south of 437 degrees and condensed into gasoline.

It is an extension of that same "cracking" principle—a dramatic extension, involving heats and pressures whose very suggestion would have raised the hair of the original crackers—which is represented in Sohio X-70.

In X-70 those light gasoline molecules themselves are cracked. Driven into new combinations and alignments, they produce a fuel that burns at such a rate and in such a way that power is greatly increased and "knocking" becomes a thing of the past.

Incidentally, I've picked up some hefty dope on knocking that turns a lot of my cherished ideas inside out. But right now I'm busting the tape at the end of the track, and that will have to hold over for next week's broadcast. In the meantime—mind your molecules!

"Hot as the hinges!" says Floyd as he takes a guarded look into the seething flames that add Heat-Tempering to those good Sohio gasolines.

"It even looks good—and, boy! it ought to," orates Gibbons as he draws off a flask of sparkling gasoline—fresh from the Heat-Tempering treatment.

AIR FORCES TO CONCENTRATE EARLY IN MAY

Army Corps Will Meet Imaginary Enemy.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9 — Defense of America's industrial centers and a majority of its population will be the problem next month confronting the army air corps in the most gigantic mobilization in its history.

Flying from all parts of the country, regular air corps forces, combining with national guard forces for the first time, will concentrate at Dayton, Ohio, and related points to defend the Atlantic Seaboard from Maine to Virginia against an imaginary enemy, said F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, for air.

"Never in its history has the air corps held field maneuvers on the scale involved in the present mobilization. It is necessary that they take place because it is the only way of finding out whether theories are practical and efficient," Davidson said.

"Coast defense definitely was allotted to the army in a recent agreement between the chief of staff of the army and the chief of naval operations," Mr. Davison remarked.

"Embracing only a small part of the United States so far as territory is concerned, the stretch of land from the coast between Maine and Norfolk, Virginia, and westward in a line including Ohio contains the greatest part of the population of the country, its great industrial centers, communications and wealth," the assistant secretary said.

"A mass attack against these centers to cut off supplies, would be the first effort of offensive forces attempting to land in the United States. The forthcoming maneuvers are to test the mobility of the air corps to the greatest possible extent."

"In the mobilization of 672 airplanes," he continued, "the air corps is massing every available piece of equipment outside of training planes. This does not mean that we would have 672 planes for war combat should an emergency arise tomorrow. The fact is that we would have only 425 combat planes, the remaining number being cargo and school planes.

"In order to create the emergency atmosphere we are drafting the graduating class of the advanced flying school at Kelly field as well as calling national guard units to active duty. Planes will come from all parts of the country to be welded into the division organization.

Without the practical effort of the proposed mobilization, the assistant secretary asserted the air corps would lack definite knowledge of how a war-time air force should be operated. Beyond the actual fighting value of the planes, he said the exercises would for the first time demonstrate how far the air corps in its emergencies could depend upon municipal and commercial airports as war-time bases.

STOMACH SUFFERERS Follow This Doctor's Advice

"25 years' experience as a practising physician and specialist in stomach disorders, has convinced me that patients suffering from loss of appetite, acid-dyspepsia, gas, heartburn, auto-intoxication, vertigo, bloating, belching, or other conditions due to constipation, should quit the use of drastic drugs and appeal to Nature for help."

This is the positive statement of Dr. Orlando Marindino, who continues:

"I can state with authority that the Flaxolyn formula, in which the full benefits of herbs, roots and vegetable extracts have been ably combined, will have AN INVIGORATING EFFECT ON LAGGARD STOMACH AND BOWELS."

Dr. Charles C. Logan, of Los Angeles, Calif., another physician retained to test Flaxolyn, says, "Stomach sufferers will find Flaxolyn an excellent aid to health."

The quick results MUST prove to you that Flaxolyn is more than worth the small amount you pay for it. Behind every bottle stands the guarantee of your complete satisfaction, or money back! Don't delay. Take Flaxolyn. Feel better. Look better. Eat with appetite. Get FULL nourishment out of your food.

PLIES TRADE OF BLACKSMITH FOR 64 YEARS

Richwood Man Also Champion In Checkers.

By The Associated Press.

RICHMOND, O., April 9 — If N. W. "Nate" Spratt has a philosophy it might be expressed in these words—Pick your life work and stick to it.

And Spratt ought to know. He is past 80 years of age, but today just as he had done for the past 64 years, he plies his trade as blacksmith in this little Union county village. He has become an institution, and farm folks and others hereabouts look to him to keep their horses shod and their plows and other implements in good repair.

But Spratt doesn't spend all his time over the forge and anvil. He is a sportsman at heart, and he's often a-field with his dog and gun during hunting season.

Trotting races, too, are a hobby, and in addition to serving many terms on the Richwood fair board, he had driven some good trotting horses. Track followers recall some of the fast steppers over which he has held a rein. They include K. P., 2:29½; Carrie Nation, 2:15¼; Zip, 2:19¼; M. W. 2:20¼; and Diamond Dick, 2:19¼.

And, incidentally, Spratt challenges any Ohio blacksmith of his age to defeat him at checkers, eucher or rifle shooting.

PENNSY TRAINS ON SCHEDULE

Central Region Reports 97.7 Percent of 19,972 Trains in March Operate "On Time."

PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 9—A new on-time performance for passenger trains was made in March by the Central region of the Pennsylvania Railroad according to figures just compiled and announced by J. F. Deasy, vice president.

The region operated 19,972 regularly scheduled passenger trains of which 97.7 arrived on time. Previous best figures was 97.4 last February.

The Central region operates 3,739 miles of road in the Cleveland-Buffalo-Pittsburgh territory.

MOVIE MACHINE IN LABORATORY

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O. — Another new one in the way of laboratory equipment for students of the fine arts. At Ohio State university, they are using a new type of model-moving picture. The student watches the picture in a darkened room. The lights then are flashed on and the young artists sketch what they saw. The film is run a second time as a check on their work.

Members of the fine arts departmnt explain that this training permits students to drill themselves in action drawing and to observe objects and persons closely.

CHURCH PLANS REVIVAL MEET

Rev. Park to Preach At Second Christian Edifice.

A two week's revival meeting will open in the Second Christian church in Pennsylvania avenue, Sunday, April 19, in charge of Rev. Hilton Park and Samuel O'Dell, California evangelists. Meetings will be held each night, excepting Saturdays, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Park will be assisted on the opening day and the following Sunday by Rev. W. T. Howells, pastor of the church.

The evangelist and O'Dell are conducting revival services in the Christian church in Fredericktown and will close a two week campaign there Sunday night. The two men are making a tour of Christian churches in the east. A special musical program is featured by Samuel O'Dell, singer and pianist.

A series of revival meetings were held in the Pennsylvania avenue edifice last November in charge of Rev. W. H. Baker, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Rev. Howells will exchange pulpits with Rev. Charles P. Durbin of the Christian church of Chewton, Pa., next Sunday morning.

Allenru 48 Hour Week-end Treatment For Rheumatism

SUFFERERS NOW JOYFUL—THANKFUL—ASTONISHED

Pain Agony And Swelling Go Over Week-End or Money Back Says Herche's Drug Store, C. G. Anderson.

8 OZ. BOTTLE 85 CENTS

They call this the Allenru week-end treatment for Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuritis because you can go to bed on Friday Night—stay there as much as possible till Monday morning and while there, drive the uric acid from your ailing joints and muscles.

But during that time you must take Allenru as directed—for Allenru acts with double speed when the body is relaxed and rested and this week-end method is particularly valuable to folks who don't want to lose time thru the week.

You can purchase Allenru from Herche's Drug Store, C. G. Anderson's, or any progressive druggist in America—a large 8 ounce bottle 85 cents—and money back if it doesn't do as advertised.—Adv.

150 AT ZONE MEET OF LODGE

Pennsylvania Odd Fellow Officials Speak at District Session in East End.

Supreme President S. H. Hadley and Field Director Frank Mellet of Sharon, Pa., addressed approximately 150 persons at the district rally and entertainment of Eureka Circle No. 86, Protected Home Circle, in the Odd Fellows' temple in Mulberry street Tuesday night. Brief talks were also given by wives of the two visiting officials of the lodge.

Delegations were present from Steubenville, Wellsville, Toronto, Irondale, Weirton, downtown, and Midland and Sharon, Pa. A half-hour exhibition by the Weirton degree team was a feature of the program. Orchestral and quartet selections as well as readings were included.

Luncheon was served by the social committee after the program, with Mrs. James Larkins as chairman.

PIGEON CLUB ENTERS RACE

East End Unit Places 200 Birds in Competition at Coshocton on May 3.

Ten members of the East End pigeon club will enter about 200 birds in the initial race of the spring season to be held in Coshocton May 3, under the auspices of the American Racing Pigeon Union. Approximately 10,000 birds will be liberated at the first race, which will be for old birds. Races for young birds will be held in the fall. Test flights are being held now by members of the local unit.

It is planned to hold seven races, ranging in distance from 75 to 500 miles. Awards for speed will be made owners for pigeons by the Pigeon Union. Several prizes were received by fanciers here last season.

John Wood of Railroad street was elected race secretary at a recent meeting in his home. The next session of the club will be at the Wood home, Tuesday, April 21.

AUTO ACCIDENT SAVES LIFE

By The Associated Press.

BUCYRUS, O., April 9.—An automobile accident saved the life of a man here Wednesday.

W. Allan, 40, of Wooster, was driving his truck across the Big Four railroad tracks, when the steering apparatus broke. He was thrown out of the truck to the other side of the railroad crossing, and was only slightly bruised. A moment after Allan was thrown clear a passenger train came along and demolished the truck. An hour was required to dig the ruins of the truck from the front of the locomotive.

If Your Ears Ring With Head Noises.

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to Carnahan's or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

FRANK O'NEIL JR., IS CINEMATIC "MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY"

Son of Famous Jockey Born Here, Educated In France.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The American-born son of American parents, Frank O'Neill Jr., has found himself, in Hollywood, a sort of cinematic "man without a country."

FRANK O'NEILL

The younger O'Neill, son of the famous jockey who has won laurels on most of the famous race tracks of the world, was born at Gravesend, Long Island, 24 years ago, but was taken to France by his parents when he was six months old and has lived most of his life there, except for visits to America with his father.

He was educated in French schools and learned to speak the language fluently, while acquiring at home a perfect command of English. He speaks both languages without accent.

Early Ambition

Despite his father's fame on the turf, young Frank never desired to be a jockey. His ambition, from early youth, was pointed to the screen.

Nearly three years ago he was on the verge of entering the industry in the exhibition field. The late Jules Mastbaum, theater chain executive, brought him to Philadelphia to learn the business. Then Mastbaum died, and young O'Neill came to Hollywood to become an actor.

It seemed that his ambition was to be realized, for he broke into films almost immediately. It was in a French version, true, but it seemed inevitable that it would lead to an opportunity on the American screen too.

Foreigner At Home

But Frank reckoned without Hollywood's penchant for typing its actors, cataloguing them in little niches from which they may not escape. He became, to Hollywood, just another French juvenile.

So he played in one French version after another—the French version of David Rollins in "The Big Trail," of Charles Farrell in "The Man Who Came Back," perhaps of Phillips Holmes in "An American Tragedy" and so on.

But to present an English-speaking version of Frank O'Neill Jr., himself on the screen has been denied him thus far. He knows few of the American actors here, and most of his friends are in the French acting colony.

He is an American citizen, but in the movies and in Hollywood that means nothing, because he made his screen debut speaking French.

CERAMIC

Buster Keaton of the frozen countenance cavorts through a comedy of errors in which too many sweethearts, a jealous husband with a gun, a policeman and a balky auto figure in a riproaring series of trials and tribulations. It all happens in "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy which will open today at the Ceramic theater.

Adapted from the stage play, one of the reigning comedy hits of Broadway, the new picture has Buster in the role of a yonng man who is "touted" as a gay Lothario o such an extent that he is n trouble—mostly woman trouble—practically all the time. He gets suspected by his sweetheart, is caught in a compromising position with a married woman by her jealous husband—who has a gun—disrupts a fashionable hotel, wrecks a car and almost himself, and otherwise stays in hot water to the infinite relish of the audience.

Charlotte Greenwood, the celebrated comedienne of "So Long Letty" and other Broadway hits, adds no end of joviality to those scenes in which she goes through all sorts of gymnastic stunts with the long legs that made her famous.

The unusually prominent supporting cast is further augumented by the presence of Reginald Denny, Cliff Edwards and Edward Brophy, the trio which scored so successfully in "Those Three French Girls."

There is no lack of pulchritude in the new Keaton laughmaker, for the feminine roles are distributed between Dorothy Christy, last seen in "The Playboy of Paris"; Joan Peers, of "Tol'able David"; Sally Eilers, Keaton's heroine in "Dough Boys," and Natalie Moorhead. All of these players admittedly have their share of good looks.—(To be reviewed Friday.)

AMERICAN

Again Charlie Chaplin has startled the entire movie world with a picture that may have a revolutionary effect on the future of the screen. His new film, "City Lights," which is current at the American theater, is a non-dialogue film, although synchronized with music composed mainly by Chaplin and sound effects that are an integral part of the comedy "gags" evolved in the development of the story.

Charlie here appears, as ever, in the historic trousers, the elephantine shoes and crazily cocked derby. This time he has as boon companion in his antics, Harry Myers, remembered for "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" in its silent picture form. Virginia Cherrill, Chicago girl, makes her debut in the film as Chaplin's leading lady. She plays the role of a flower girl loved by the tramp. The quizzical hobo, dear to millions, again goes in for those spinning runs around corners, precarious balancings on a quavering heel with both hands clutching for dear life onto the wind-blown derby. Charlie worries about his trousers and his poise and his cosmic significance; and he is more than ever the earthly Chaplin who touches the heart of things.

STATE.

A combination that has proven sure-fire screen entertainment are again together in "The Lash," the First National-Vitaphone production starring Richard Barthelmess which will be at the State theater commencing today.

The combination is that of Barthelmess and Frank Lloyd who directed "Weary River," "Drag," "Young Nowheres," and "Son of the Gods." The past picture has been breaking box-office records everywhere and has established itself as the greatest Barthelmess hit since "The Patent Leather Kid."

Lloyd and Barthelmess had daily conferences with writer Bradley King paving the way for "The Lash," based on the novel by the Bartletts. The story concerns early California in the days of Franciscan fathers, missions, pioneers, and romantic adventure in the wide open spaces.

Barthelmess enacts the role of a proud Spanish don who adopts banditry in order to fight his people's oppressors. It offers him a role of color, romance and dash. The production requires an unusually large cast including three girls.

Mary Astor plays the feminine lead, Marian Nixon the sister and Barbara Bedford, Lupe, the Mexican dancing girl. (To be reviewed Friday).

3,000 MOTHERS TO MAKE VISIT TO CEMETERIES

War Department Plans For Pilgrimage To France.

By SAMUEL DASHIEL
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 9.—Approximately 3,000 Gold Star Mothers, who will visit Europe this summer, will receive the same consideration as those who came last year, with the added advantage of an experienced war department personnel which has worked all year making arrangements.

Although more than 3,000 mothers and relatives had originally signified their acceptances, it is probable that the number will be about 2,800, due to family obligations, illness and postponements.

One of the features of this year's pilgrimage is the coming of from 300 to 400 mothers and relatives of soldiers and sailors who were either lost at sea, or whose graves have never been located.

Colonel Richard T. Ellis, chief of the American Graves' Registration Service in Europe, has been making extraordinary efforts in all the old battle sectors to locate hundreds of missing graves and to identify bodies accurately through correspondence with Regimental chaplains, sergeants and immediate superior offices of the men who fell.

Until every evidence has been proven, the Graves' Registration Services does not feel satisfied as to identity and months are often required to complete identification supplementary to that found in the grave.

Those mothers and relatives of men whose graves are unknown, or who found their last repose in the sea, will be given the same opportunities of seeing Paris and the American cemeteries along the old battlefront as all war mothers, but also will be accorded the extra privilege of a short sightseeing trip to England, returning to their American liner via Southampton. It is probable that appropriate service will be held at sea, on the way over, for those men who went down in such sinkings as the Cyclops, the Conestoga, and Tuscania and others.

The first party is expected to arrive in Cherbourg on May 14. The pilgrimages will continue through the summer until 19 parties will have visited the five cemeteries in France. The last party this year is due about September 2 and will leave for home about September 24.

As on the first pilgrimage, the war department will chose from its meritorious young officers, 18 especially equipped men who will act as conducting officers, detailed to go with each party and to see that the original orders are carried out that every war mother, or relative, must have what she wants, no matter how unreasonable it might seem.

Entertainment of the Gold Star mothers and relatives will have the added feature this year of the French Colonial Exhibition which will be opened at Paris. Large Pullman autocars will convey the visitors about Paris and to the exhibition where competent guides will show them about.

The Prefect of Police has detailed a special officer to the Gold Star Mothers, and they will be equipped with appropriate cards of identity, bearing a gold star, and printed in French and English, guaranteeing them consideration and help wherever they are.

Paris Doctor Tells How to Reduce Fat Safely

Dr. Walter Thalmann, for years physician in the Hospital St. Louis, Paris, France, and Polyclinic Hospital in Vienna, has created a sensation by placing his public endorsement upon an American reducing discovery called ROBEX.

Dr. Thalmann, when retained to give his expert opinion of the ROBEX formula, said:

"Men and women who desire to take off 10 or 12 pounds a week, will NOT find the way through ROBEX. Many women today are 'going crazy' to reduce because they want to retain their youthfulness and keep their husband's love.

"These women try to get thin overnight, and in doing so lose pep, become irritable, pale and drawn-looking.

"I welcome the ROBEX formula because it brings about GRADUAL—and therefore SAFE—reduction. As you lose in weight the ROBEX way, you gain in energy and attractiveness. I place my heartiest approval upon ROBEX."

ROBEX tablets are the easiest thing in the world to take—just four a day—one after meals and at bedtime. Thousands of folks who formerly suffered physical discomfort and mental tortures of obesity, have lost in weight and gained in appearance, simply by taking ROBEX.

Do not let excess fat rob you of love, happiness, health. Tear out this clipping. Start the ROBEX treatment today. Druggists here hand back your money unless you are satisfied with results! Reducing advice free in every package.
